Monday Post.

NAVAL AFFAIRS.
GENERAL EVENING POST, Jan. 6.

New York, Yesterday, his Majesty's ship Dover, Nov. 17. Capt. Pearfall, arrived from Portsmouth, with several transports under her convoy, having on board, 2000 soldiers.

2. They write from Leghorn, that the weather was so extremely tempestuous during the best part of the month of November, that a great number of ships perished in the Mediterranean.

3. The last letters from Constantinople, import, that the foreign ministers there have been desired to send word to the Consuls of their respective nations, to order the captains of ships not to fire their cannon as they pass by the Dardanelles; on account of the pregnancy of one of the Sultanas; for whose happy delivery publick prayers have been delivered up in all the Mosques. These letters add, that the capt. Pacha, or grand admiral of the porte, has been deposed, on account of the loss of the ship which the christian slaves seized and carried into Malta, (as mentioned in a former paper): and that the officer who acted as captain on board the said vessel has been strangled.

[The Dardanelles are two castles at the entrance of the Hellespont, where all ships going to Constantinople, are examined.]

4. The English prisoners of war in and near several sea-ports in France, have been lately removed some miles up the country, through fear of a visit from our expedition fleet. At Calais they have destroyed some of their wooden works towards the sea, and most hastily called forth and marched a great body of regulars and militia towards that part of their coast. The French ships in the river Villaine are almost destroyed by the late high winds and swelling sea, the mariners of which now form a garrison, to prevent our shipping from attempting any thing in that river.

5. There is advice from Oporto, by the way of Corunna, of 17 vessels from Newfoundland being arrived there, under convoy of the Antelope and Fortune sloop. The men of war, after seeing the above ships safe on, proceeded with the rest of the fleet to the different ports they were bound to.

6. On Thursday arrived at Plymouth the Adventure frigate, from Quiberon-Bay, with ten sail of transports under her convoy, who have on board the two regiments of foot that were embarked at Corke for the secret expedition.

Extract of a letter from Portsmouth, Jan. 3.

7. The sheathing of the ships for the West Indies goes on very expeditiously, so that our hopes of being soon in possession of some new conquest, serves to lessen our chagrin for the disappointment of our late armament.

MISCELLANEOUS ARTICLES.

GENERAL EVENING POST, Jan. 6.

WE learn from Amsterdam, that they are by no means pleased with their last accounts from the East-Indies, where the Malays are in arms against them in several places; and the expences they are obliged to be at, in guards and garrisons, go very deep into the company's profits.

2. They write from Hanover of the 12th ult. that the French troops had not then evacuated Gotingen; the allies have a powerful garrison at Nordheim, Elmbeck, and in the circumjacent towns.

3. Letters from Bresslau, advise, that the troops under the command of the Prussian gen. Goltze had formed a chain in the mountainous part of Silesia, bordering on Bohemia; and that the corps under general Laudohn was retired into the county of Glatz.

4. His most faithful majesty has published a new ordinance, fuller and more severe than any of the precedings against contraband dealing, as well in his kingdom of Portugal as in the Brazils; and in the last-mentioned part of his dominions, smugglers are to be no longer tried by the old laws, as had been the custom hitherto, but to be entirely subject to those of Portugal.

5. We are credibly informed, that in compliment to the memory of our late most illustrious Majesty, there are orders to discharge the Hanover loan forthwith, and that sum will be sent to the bank in a few days to pay off the principal and interest.

6. It is said that a certain great man has received orders from his superior, not to bias, or by any means tempt, the lower sort of voters dependent on his department, but leave them entirely to their own choice for their representatives at the approaching election.

7. On Saturday died of a mortification in his foot, aged near eighty, at his house in Albemarle-street, lieutenant gen. JOHN HUSKE, governor of Jersey, and colonel of the regiment of Welch fuziliers. He received several wounds in the battles of Dettingen, la Val and Fontenoy, and greatly distinguished himself in the battle of Culloden. He served under the duke of Marlborough, in queen Anne's wars, and raised himself entirely by his merit.

He has left 5000 l. to a servant who attended him in all the battles he was in, and considerable legacies to every servant under him.

8. A certain lord, we hear, is under prosecution for sending a challenge to a noble duke.

9. Yesterday, the count de Fuentes, the Spanish ambassador, waited on his Majesty, and delivered his credentials;

As did two persons of distinction, who came from the empress of Russia, with a condolance on the death of his late majesty.

10. We hear Admiral Boscawen is relapsed, and is in great danger.

LONDON GAZETTE, January 6.

8. The following address of the Noblemen, Gentlemen, Freeholders and others of the county of Banff, has been presented to his Majesty by the right honourable lord Macduff, their representative in parliament, being introduced by the lord of his Majesty's bed chamber: which address his Majesty was pleased to receive very graciously.

To the King's most Excellent Majesty,

The humble address of the Noblemen, Gentlemen, Freeholders, and others of the county of Banff.

Most gracious Sovereign,

WE your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Noblemen, Gentlemen, Freeholders, and others of the county of Banff, humbly beg leave to address your Majesty, and offer our warm and unfeigned congratulations on your happy accession to the throne of your native country.

This event, as it has filled the minds of all your subjects with the most pleasing hopes of lasting honour and happiness to these kingdoms, has also served to alleviate the sense of the unexpected and severe loss, which they sincerely felt, on the death of their late great and good Sovereign, your Majesty's royal grandfather, whose memory we revere, and whose gracious attention to this part of the kingdom fills our hearts with the most grateful respect.

The united voice and joyful acclamations of a free and powerful nation are the happy omens, which mark the auspicious beginning of your Majesty's reign, and convince us, that our expectations are well founded, that your Majesty's acknowledged wisdom and goodness will ever be employed to maintain the constitution of Great Britain, to cement the union of the two parts of this island; whose interests are so inseparably connected together, and to promote the commerce, and real welfare of all your Majesty's subjects.

Confiding in your Majesty's royal virtues; that even the remotest parts of your dominions shall share in the protection and blessing of your Majesty's government, we humbly beg leave to assure your Majesty, that our loyalty and fidelity shall be equal to that of the most loyal of your Majesty's subjects.

Signed by appointment of the meeting at Banff,
Dec. 9, 1760, by

Deftford Preses.

DOMESTICK OCCURRENCES. ABERDEEN.

WE are informed of a melancholy accident that happened lately near this place. As a young girl was asleep, a dog, not suspected of madness, crept softly to her bed and licked her face for some time, which, on awaking, she found all over in a lather of froth, and complained of no ailment, that day. But soon after, she was violently seized with all the symptoms of that dreadful infection, and died raving mad.

2. Last week, a mad dog got into a gentleman's stable, at a little distance from the town, and bit his horse. The poor creature caught the infection so suddenly, that he killed the dog, and fell a tearing his own flesh from the bones; but being shot thro' a hole made on purpose, all further damage was prevented.

Arrived, The Old St. Peter, Pier Piers, from Holland, with flax; the Jupiter of Aberdeen, Gibbons, from London; the Mary, Nicol, from Newcastle, with English, and the Jean, Moorie, from the Frith, with Scotch coals.

They who take in the Aberdeen Journal, are desired, for the future, to keep them carefully, as at the end of the year, they shall have a general title, and an index to the affairs relating to this town and county, delivered to them, gratis, which, when bound, may serve as an historical register of domestick transactions and occurrences.
