Trust buys church hall for undisclosed price

'The plan was always to put substantial sums of money into regeneration'

REPORT By EDEL KENEALY
editor@argyllshireadvertiser.co.uk

ARDRISHAIG Community Trust is to become the new owner of the North church hall in Ardrishaig in the coming months.

The general trustees of the Church of Scotland have accepted the trust's offer to buy the hall but neither party would reveal how much was paid for the property.

It was put on the market for offers over £60,000.

The charity made the undisclosed offer without consulting the community.

Strategy

But a spokesman for Ardrishaig Community Trust said: 'As soon as there was money available the plan was always to put substantial sums of money into village regeneration rather than it just being distributed to local groups, so this really fits with that strategy.'

'We have not seen the legal paperwork, but our lawyers are working through that at the moment. The offer has been accepted but nothing has been signed.'

Confirmed

The spokesman said the sum paid for the hall would only be revealed once the paperwork was complete but confirmed money in the trust's Action Fund would be used for the purchase.

Set up in 2012, the Action Fund holds money generated by the trust's share in Allt Dearg community wind farm.

To date the trust has distributed £115,401 to community groups via

AFTER months of waiting and weeks of preparation, the Queen's Baton finally arrived in Mid Argyll.

Dozens of people from the area, well known for their involvement with sports or for their personal contribution to the community, were honoured with carrying the baton through their home town.

Fee Corner, above, a Jogscotland leader who inspired children and adults to take up running in Inveraray, was delighted to carry the baton while many of those she had coached ran behind her. For more on the Queen's Baton Relay and the inspirational people who took part, see pages 4 and 5.

Dedicated road safety policing team launched

A DEDICATED road policing team for Argyll and Bute has been formed in a bid to reduce the number of serious and fatal accidents on the county's roads.

The move has come in response to public concern over driver behaviour in the area and the number of fatal and serious road crashes on the A83 and A85, in particular.

See page two for the full story.

Countdown to art auction deadline

THERE is only one day remaining for art lovers to bid on the paintings in 2014 Duntrune Trekkers art auction.

Currently on display at Crinan coffee shop, the auction features work by Argyll favourites including Jolomo, Frances Macdonald and Sian Macqueen.

New police team hits the road

A DEDICATED road policing team for Argyll and Bute has been launched in a bid to reduce the number of serious and fatal accidents on the county's roads.

Every division in Police Scotland has one road policing team but the introduction of the new Argyll unit gives L Division (Argyll and West Dunbartonshire) a second team.

The move has come in response to public concern over driver behaviour in the area and the number of fatal and serious road crashes on the A83 and A85, in particular.

Initial figures for 2013 show there were nine fatal road accidents and 38 serious injury accidents in Argyll and Bute. In total there were 208 reported crashes.

Inspector Adam MacKenzie, who will head up the new unit, said: 'Although last year's was not the worst figure on record, there were still too many fatal and serious road crashes in the Argyll area.'

'The issue of road safety is very high on the community agenda and the best way to tackle that is through the road policing team.'

'The major work is preventative but we can also get officers to the scene of a crash more quickly. This is better for the families of the people involved and for gathering evidence in order to get roads re-opened as quickly as possible.' The Argyll team will comprise 12 police constables and two sergeants, with one of the sergeants and seven constables covering the areas of Mid Argyll, Oban, Lorn and the Isles, Kintyre and Islay.

Roadsafety campaigner Andy Elkerton, whose friend was killed in a car crash on the A85 in May this year, welcomed the move, saying: 'I am really pleased to see the police making this positive move.'

'It is a sign, if any more were needed, that further actions need to be taken by the other relevant authorities.'

The unit will be supported by trunk road patrol groups at Glasgow and Fort William.

the fund and set aside
£10,000 for Ardrishaig
regeneration.

Since it became operational in December 2012, Allt Dearg has generated £230,000 for the people of Ardrishaig. £101,000 has not been allocated to any project or community group in that time.

The trust believes it will take ownership of the hall in September when it will complete a community consultation to establish how villagers would like to see the hall managed.

'We are not making any assumptions about what will happen long term, the spokesman added. 'The only thing that is definite is that the community will be able to use it; it will be business as usual.'

Sign takes a step in the wrong direction

HOUSES in Fernoch Park, Lochgilphead, were almost wiped off the map last week when Argyll and Bute Council replaced a sign at the housing development. The sign makes no mention of 17 houses between numbers 23 and 40 and is pointing people searching for an address in the wrong direction. One resident said: 'Maybe we will not have to pay council tax any more.' Argyll and Bute Council said it would correct the sign in the near future.

Teenage girls allegedly had cannabis

TWO TEENAGE girls, aged 18 and 19, have been reported to the procurator fiscal after allegedly being found in possession of cannabis.

The girls were said to have been carrying herbal cannabis when police stopped the car they were travelling in near Cairnbaan at 1.25am on Tuesday.

Urgent appeal for volunteer drivers

A LIFELINE service which helps frail and elderly people to remain active members of their community and maintain their independence is in need of urgent support.

Mid Argyll Transport Volunteers (MATV) desperately needs volunteer drivers in Tarbert, Lochgilhead and Ardrishaig to ensure it can continue to transport people to hospital appointments and social outings.

Volunteer drivers are paid a mileage allowance to cover wear, tear and fuel for their cars while passengers pay a charge for the service according to distance.

Norma Ross from MATV said: 'We transport older and less able members of the community when other forms of transport are inconvenient or sometimes impossible to access.'

'We are funded to an extent by Argyll and Bute Council and intend to apply for funding to various trusts but we still need to raise more money so our service can continue. The many longer runs, often for cancer patients to Glasgow hospitals, are taking their toll on the cash flow available.'

Anyone willing to help should call Norma on 01546 602658.

Break-in probe: man arrested

A MAN has been arrested in connection with three break-ins in Inveraray on Sunday.

During two of the incidents - when a shop window on Main Street was smashed and a house nearby was broken into on Sunday morning - no goods were stolen.

However when a third house was broken into the 39-year-old is alleged to have taken off with goods.

He was later traced and detained by police pending a court appearance.

Green light for community company

Work starts on controversial school pitch

Work has started to replace the controversial 2G pitch at Lochgilhead Joint Campus. Workmen were seen ripping up the carpet on Monday morning, the day after the Queen's Baton left Mid Argyll. Argyll and Bute Council say the new 40mm Tiger Turf surface will be laid before the school reopens on August 14. 06_a29pitch02

A COMMUNITY company will be set up in Inveraray, as a number of town centre improvement projects are set to take place in the Royal Burgh.

More than 20 people have come forward to play an active role in representing the community.

The move comes after Inveraray Community Council last month set out a vision to create the company, which it hoped could take ownership of Inveraray Community Hall and upgrade the grass pitch adjacent to the primary school to an all weather sports field.

It would also look at finding a way of reopening Inveraray Pier in consultation with the owner.

On Tuesday evening a horde of locals turned out to sign up to the community company and support its aims.

Davie Scott, of Inveraray Community Council, said: 'It was a good meeting, with a good cross section of the community represented.'

Plenty of names were put forward and there was a lot of enthusiasm.

'We already have three or four representatives of community organisations that are coming on board and we hope to recruit even more. We are looking at having between 25 and 30 people in total.'

A priority for the community company is transferring the community hall, which is held by two trustees, into community ownership.

Iain MacAskill of the community council said a consultation and survey on the building would be done when the community company took ownership of the hall.

He added: 'I feel very positive about things just now, there is generally a positive feel to community events at the moment. That's why we are trying to make a push with the community company.'

The next meeting of Inveraray Community Council is August 5.

Meeting

THE SCOTLAND Office has asked Mid Argyll Chamber of Commerce to host a meeting on the independence referendum next month.

The event will be held in the Stag Hotel on August 18 at 6.30pm, with a coffee reception from 5.30pm.

Queen's Baton moves through Mid Argyll

CHEERS and shouts of encouragement during the Queen's Baton Relay in Lochgilphead brought back memories for one baton bearer and the man who spurred on so many of her personal achievements.

Carolyn McAlpine, who carried the baton through Argyll Street, started jogging in 2009 when her dad joked that she would be running marathons in no time.

Two years later, after her father died of Hodgkins Lymphoma, Carolyn signed up for the London Marathon and raised in excess of £8,000 for the Anthony Nolan Trust.

In 2013 after her aunt also died of cancer, Carolyn, with friend Douglas Moore, embarked on a 100-mile run from the Friends of the Beatson Cancer Centre in Glasgow to her father's front door.

The three-day challenge saw the duo run through Lochgilphead to be greeted by crowds shouting encouragement on the last leg of their journey.

Explaining the baton relay was an incredible way to round off the last few years of challenges, Carolyn said: 'It all stemmed from that one conversation [with my dad], I never thought it would get to this.'

'It's such an honour.'

'[Sunday] brought back memories of running along the front with everyone out to cheer us on; I had all my family there.'

Carolyn was one of many jogscotland leaders in Mid Argyll chosen to be a baton bearer.

Jacqui Barker, a fitness instructor at Mid Argyll Sports Centre, carried the baton, as did Fee Corner, who leads both a junior and adult jogscotland group in the royal burgh.

Meanwhile Willie Young, the man who introduced jogscotland to Argyll more than 10 years ago, carried the baton on a boat along the iconic Crinan Canal.

Willie, former coach of the Scottish men's volleyball team and Scottish boys' golf team, has worked in sports development for more than 30 years.

He said: 'The turn out ty along the canal... with all the jogscotland folk was great.

'Through coaching champions at my job at the council people trained as coaches and got involved in sport in their own community so that is the reward to see them turn out and cheer you on. It was very heart warming.'

Fellow sportsman Bill MacCallum, MBE stood proudly with the baton atop Dunadd Fort. Bill has taught athletics in Argyll for more than 30 years and established Mid Argyll Athletics Club in 1984; it is currently one of the biggest sports clubs in the area.

Other baton bearers from Mid Argyll included Ed Laughton from Ardrishaig, Megan Yuill, Kilmartin, Ryan McCuaig, Lochgilphead, Catherine Paterson and Inveraray shinty player Fraser MacNicol.

Sophie Brown, who turned one last week, will be one of Team Scotland's youngest fans when the Commonwealth Games gets underway. 06_29bat26

Baton relay showcased inspirational people

WRITING about the Queen's Baton Relay in Argyll and Bute has served as a timely reminder of the remarkable number of inspirational and talented people who live within the Mid Argyll community.

Baton bearers are people who have overcome personal challenges, battled with cancer, ran the length of the country for charity and spent a lifetime working to improve facilities and opportunities in this community.

The relay was a wonderful way to acknowledge their efforts and a fitting way to say thank you.

There were 32 baton bearers who carried the baton from Kilmartin, through Lochgilhead to Furnace and Inveraray; links in a chain that saw the baton travel 174 miles from Appin to Du-noon in one day.

For all those who watched the coverage on BBC Scotland, the relay not only showcased our landmarks and stunning tourist destinations, but more importantly our people.

While Argyll and Bute council, the NHS and other national agencies continue to talk up our scenery, wildlife and services in a bid to boost our population, the baton relay has shown the rest of the country that the people living here are not only a credit to their communities but to Scotland as well.

Congratulations to all our baton bearers and the organisers of the Queen's Baton Relay in Argyll.

Embrace this opportunity for change

Sir,
Stuart Smith's letter in last week's edition of the Advertiser on independence, farming and fishing concerns has one distinct flaw in that there is more than fishing and farming at stake in the referendum. He says that Scotland is pulling its weight as an integral part of the UK, tell that to those relying on food banks and yes they are here in Argyll. If only it was as simple as economics but there is far more to consider when you are weighing up the fate of a nation and the opportunity to truly enhance what we call democracy.

The current union and system is failing not just people in Scotland but throughout the UK in my opinion simply because of the free market capitalist dogma embraced by the main political parties who appear to have merged into one through this debate.

There is an alternative and I would urge your readers to take time to look at the 'Common Weal' via the Jimmy Reid foundation.

Alienation is the precise and correctly applied word for describing the major social problem today, people feel alienated by society. Despair and hopelessness pervades people who in turn feel they have no say in shaping their own destinies.

Here is the opportunity and the time to make a beginning for all of us, be we farmers, whisky workers, teachers, shipbuilders, to truly influence our government, an opportunity that will never be granted as long as we are governed by the present political elite via Westminster.

To quote Jimmy Reid one more time: 'A rat race is for rats. We are not rats, we are human beings.'

I urge you to consider more than the economy come September and to embrace this opportunity for change.

Chalmers Street, Ardrishaig.

Working hard to encourage regeneration

Sir,
I note with interest the letter - Great chance to allow Ardrishaig to flourish more - in a recent edition.

Ardrishaig Community Council, supported by the community, is working hard to encourage regeneration to make the village a more resilient and interesting place. The new shops and café are very welcome, demonstrating that the spirit of enterprise is alive and well in Ardrishaig.

At the centre of the village, there is the covered precinct. What should be a super focal point for small businesses and other enterprises is instead a curtained office block. Occupiers include Argyll and Bute Council, ACHA and Conservative Party. The terrace is silent and sterile, grubby, colourless and unkempt. This prime location in its current state contributes nothing to making this part of the village attractive and inviting.

The community council recently requested the council to release its vacated planning office for community use. Regrettably, the request was rejected, the space will remain as office accommodation.

If we wish our village to become more resilient and sustainable, the council and other public organisations should give greater consideration to encouraging enthusiastic and creative people by offering as a priority business units located in the Ardrishaig precinct.

Queen's Baton Relay - disappointing

Sir,
I was disappointed in the organisation of the Queen's Baton Relay in Lochgilhead last Sunday.

I was among the crowd in Colchester Square who waited patiently for over an hour and a quarter to see the baton. When it did arrive it was in the square for about 20 seconds! I hadn't even time to take a picture.

One of the runners should have gone round the crowd so we could at least have had a look at the baton. Also, Mid Argyll Pipe Band should have been in the square rather than in Lorne Street.

All in all it was a rather disappointing event.

Information wanted

Sir,
I am seeking information about my ancestors, Murdoch Brodie and Sarah Turner.

They were married in Glasgow in 1793 and had about 13 children. Murdoch worked as loch keeper on the Crinan Canal. Some of their grown children, including my great, great, great grandfather Robert Brodie, moved to Middlesex County, Ontario in 1832. Later, my great grandparents moved to Michigan, USA and I currently live in Minnesota.

We have lost all memory and connection with our Scottish roots.

I would be very excited to communicate with any of the descendants of Murdoch and Sarah, and I would also really like to know who Murdoch's parents were, if that is possible.

I can be reached at eastbro@earthlink.net.

Well done to Tarbert Seafood Festival

Sir,
I would like to commend everyone involved in the very successful Tarbert Seafood Festival.

Organising this event takes a great deal of hard work over many months and it is much appreciated.

I would also like to congratulate the lovely Seafood Queen, Catriona and her pretty princesses Ella and Rachael who performed their duties superbly.

Local student and single mum wins Student of the Year

DESCRIBED as inspirational and determined, Lochgilphead's Claire Young has won Argyll College's UHI Further Education Student of the Year Award.

Nominated by her lecturers, Claire said, 'it came as a complete shock'.

The single mum this year completed a National Certificate (NC) in Horticulture while caring for her son, Ben, who has complex needs, and her 16-year-old daughter Luna.

Averil Wilson, assistant centre manager at the Lochgilphead campus, said: 'Claire managed to balance a very demanding home life with her natural aptitude and flair for all areas of horticulture.'

'She has tackled every element of her course with enthusiasm.'

Claire gave up work a few years ago to care for Ben, now 14.

She admitted: 'It was difficult going back into education. It was scary, as it would be for anyone who had been out of work for a while.'

'It teaches you that you can still do it and regain confidence. The tutors I had are some of the most inspirational people I've ever met and the support I have had from them has been absolutely fantastic.'

Ben had been unwell on and off throughout her time on the course, which meant she had to take time off to look after him at home.

She said: 'My lecturers supported me within and out with the college. They encouraged me to carry on and would say, 'don't worry, take the time you need, we'll work together and get you through it'.

Her experience at the college spurred Claire on to apply for the HNC course in horticulture, which she hopes to embark on in September. Her long term plan is to teach.

Fraser Durie, principal of Argyll College, said Claire's commitment and dedication would stand her in good stead for the future.

'We had a wide range of fantastic students to choose from. Claire stood out from a competitive selection of potential winners,' he said.

Active schools keep on running with £50 million boost

A PROGRAMME that boosts participation in sport amongst school pupils in Argyll and Bute is to continue for at least another four years.

Active Schools, which develops sporting opportunities for young people before school, during lunch and after school, is to receive £50 million from sportscotland.

Confirmed

The national sports body this month confirmed that active school coordinators would continue working in local authorities across Scotland until at least March 2019.

The news comes as the Active Schools Network celebrates its 10th anniversary and confirms the number of young people taking part in sport is on the increase.

The latest figures from 2012/13 show a 13 per cent increase in active schools supported sports sessions, compared to the previous year – a rise of more than half a million to 5.1 million.

Stewart Harris, chief executive of sportscotland, said: 'As we move towards the Glasgow 2014 Commonwealth Games, this significant investment of up to £50 million offers another fabulous opportunity to motivate and inspire children and young people to participate in sport and physical activity.'

Argyll and Bute has one Active Schools manager and fourteen Active Schools Coordinators.

Teenage pregnancy rates hit 20 year low

TEENAGE pregnancy rates in the Highlands have hit a twenty year low, according to figures published by the Scottish Government.

Rates of pregnancy in NHS Highland's area fell from 59 per thousand females aged 13 to 20 in the peak year of 1998 to 40 per thousand in 2012.

The reduction in the 13 to 15 age group is more dramatic with rates plummeting from seven per thousand in 1998 to three per thousand in 2012.

Highland pregnancy rates in those under 16 have been consistently lower than the Scottish average over the period of the report, but rates have also declined across Scotland as a whole.

Risk to marine wildlife

BOAT operators and sailing enthusiasts are being warned not to get too close to dolphins this summer.

Scottish Natural Heritage is reminding people using smaller boats and jet skis that they pose a greater risk of colliding with marine wildlife than larger vessels.

Alyson raises £300 at MOK Run for British Heart Foundation

A WOMAN from Campbeltown - Alyson MacPherson has raised more than £300 for British Heart Foundation (BHF) Scotland at the Mull of Kintyre Half Marathon & 10K (MOK) event.

Alyson's mum suffered from heart related problems for a number of years before undergoing a double heart bypass in 2012.

Alyson said: 'We all know someone who's been affected by heart disease – sadly it touches us all.'

'I hope that I have managed to raise awareness, while raising money. It's great to know that my efforts will make a difference in fighting for every heartbeat.'

Coronary heart disease is Scotland's single biggest killer. For over 50 years the BHF has pioneered research that's been central in the discovery of vital treatments for the disease, and has transformed the lives of people living with heart and circulatory conditions, but there is still work to be done.

History of Dunadd Fort and Kilmartin Glen

THE HISTORY of Dunadd Fort and surrounding Kilmartin Glen will be explained in a guided walk arranged by Kilmartin Museum.

The walk will begin with a climb to the top of the fort and will then follow a two-mile path along the River Add.

Taking about two and a half hours, the walk will be led by two of the museum's volunteer guides who will tell people about the history of the hill fort and draw their attention to wildlife, some of which is unique to Argyll.

People taking part in the walk should meet at Kilmartin Museum at 1.30pm on August 2 where free transport will take them to Dunadd Fort.

Lori and her blue-haired helper from Funky Chicken flanked by the 100 per cent Horrid 'twins', the bookshop's Jude and Eli.

Horrid Henry and Elmer celebrated at bookshop party

TWO story book characters that have been entertaining children for decades celebrated their birthday in the Argyll Book Centre recently.

Elmer the Elephant's 25th birthday and Horrid Henry's 20th were marked during Independent Booksellers Week.

Families from across Mid Argyll attended the party which saw the Funky Chicken children's entertainer kept busy as eager kids wanted their faces painted and balloon animals made.

Children of primary school age also submitted a picture to the Bookshop's competition which asked youngsters to draw Elmer or Horrid Henry.

The event, supported by local primary schools, saw a wealth of wonderful pictures from Lochgilphead's budding artist, ensuring judges had a difficult time picking winners.

Viewed

The pictures can still be viewed in the bookshop, where the competition winners can now collect their prizes.

Competition: Elmer winners: P1: Alix Robertson; P2: Gavin Small; P3/2: Nikitta Todd; overall winner: Eilidh Flanagan, P1. Horrid Henry: P3/2: Isla Macdonald; P4/3: Niah Martin; P4: Hollie Suzanna Devine; P7/6: Katie Poppleton; overall winner: David Gillies, P6/5.

Morocco meets Crinan Canal in new exhibition

MOROCCO merged with Loch Fyne when the latest Jacqueline Macdonald art exhibition opened at the Crinan Art Gallery.

Jacqueline revealed five years worth of work, spanning two countries, when her Gone Fishing exhibition launched at the gallery on Friday.

The paintings show MacDonald's continuing relationship with fishermen, boats and the sea in an exhibition that displays pictures such as Crinan Bouys alongside El Jadida Skiffs.

The exhibition mirrors Macdonald's life which is split between her Greenock home and Morocco, where settled for a while and worked painting murals.

Describing her paintings, the Greenock woman said: 'My work all originates in Morocco, portraying their simple, relaxed but very hard working way of life, which is not submersed in materialism, but more spiritualism 'I have been back and forth the last 20 years.'

Favourite

Jacqueline, who she grew up 'on the water or in the water,' added: 'Some of the paintings I did maybe five or six years ago. It is a sale of old, new and favourite paintings.'

Port des Pêche is Jacqueline's favourite piece amongst the 24 paintings included in the exhibition. 'It was a challenging to paint, it was an achievement,' she said.

A Glasgow School of Art graduate, Jacqueline has exhibited work in several Royal Glasgow Institute of Fine Art exhibitions, as well as those organised by the Royal Society of Marine Artists.

Gone Fishing will remain on display at Crinan Gallery until the end of the month.

Vibrant colours will greet visitors to Jacqueline Macdonald's latest exhibition, Gone Fishing. 06_a29art01

Tarbert seafood festival is a big success

MORE THAN 1,500 people turned out to the 2014 Tarbert Seafood Festival earlier this month, marking another successful summer event for the traditional fishing village.

Dookers this year welcomed a new act to the festival in the form of escapologist Rob Roy Collins. His performance attracted big crowds, who helped to lock him up in chains and watched him wriggle free.

Limelight

Tarbert people enjoyed the limelight as a sea-themed parade got underway through the centre of the village. The Baywatch lifeguards could be seen in their renowned red swimming suits while shark Jaws also swam in for the annual event.

Parade

At the centre of the annual parade was the newly crowned Tarbert Seafood Festival Queen, Catriona MacNeill and her princesses Ella MacNab and Rachael Christie.

Margaret MacNeill, of the Tarbert Seafood Festival Committee, said: 'The feedback was fan-

New classes as stage is set for another super Kintyre Show

KINTYRE Agricultural Show makes its eagerly anticipated return on Friday, August 1, with organisers hoping for a bigger and better year than ever.

The show is a regular fixture on the Kintyre calendar, and it is hoped that a crowd of up to 2,000 will attend the event as its usual venue at Anderston Park, Campbeltown.

John Armour, the show's secretary, certainly hopes for as many entrants in the various judging sections as last year, or even a little more.

Good response

John said: 'We have had as good a response as last year, when there were 170 entries in the dairy section, more than 40 in the beef section, more than 200 in the sheep section and 20 in the Clydesdales. There have been a few more showing an interest in signing up so hopefully we can get even more entries than last year.'

'There have been a few changes to the stock classes, with classes open in all sections for 14-26 year old entrants, not just dairy as was previously the case.'

Prime lamb class

The show will feature a new class of individual, prime lamb judging, rather than the previous three-lamb contest, with the show seeing extra entries in the class.

The show will see entrants receive points towards a prestigious stockman's award, held annually by the Rotary Club of Campbeltown.

Stockman of the year

John said: 'Another exciting new development in the stock judging is the inclusion of the show in the list of points-winning events going towards the Rotary Club's stockman of the year competition.'

John was keen to point out some of the changes to the schedule, such as the judging times, a favourite attraction for many spectators.

He said: 'The cattle judging will take place at 10.30am this year, the Clydesdale judging at 10.30am and the sheep judging will be slightly earlier than usual at 10am.'

A fun day out for all the family

As part of the show's family appeal there will be some familiar attractions, such as fairground rides and a bouncy castle, as well as a go-karting area for adults and children.

Tug-of-war

There will be hopefully be a demonstration of power among the spectators on the day, not just from the ever-impressive Clydesdales, as the Campbeltown Young Farmers host their tug-of-war competition, with the group keen to see a healthy number of teams entering. Entries will be taken on the day.

Equine fancy dress

From strength to style, there will be a horse and pony fancy dress competition, where equines and their owners are encouraged to dress up as inventively as possible.

John said: 'In the past there have been themes attached to the fancy dress such as the Olympics, but this time entrants can pick their own theme. The competition, to be held at 3.45pm, is free to enter.'

Dog show

Another attraction for animal lovers is the dog show, and entrants for the competition are advised to sign up at the secretary's tent on the day.

With all the activities making spectators and competitors hungry, the main catering on the day will be supplied by McGeachys, with a variety of food stalls selling Kintyre produce, as well as a craft tent showcasing handmade products.

Vintage tractors

Another great attraction is the show's vintage tractor display, featuring some machines that are 40 to 50 years old, which will return this year after proving so popular in 2013. There are expected to be between 20 and 30 tractors on show, with one that was used to farm the fertile fields of Kintyre.

Sheep shearing display

Another popular event is the sheep shearing demonstration, provided by Willie Skilling and his team. They will explain to the watching public the different techniques of shearing the sheep and how to hold the animal during the removal of its wool.

After the presentation of the many prizes on offer, there will be a final parade, and John is optimistic about the prospects of another great day for the show.

He added: 'We are very happy with both the stand uptake and believe that some of the biggest shows in the country.'

'The quality here is among the best you will see, with lots of Ayrshire cattle. There will be stock on show that is among the finest in the country. All we hope for now is good weather and the same great support we have always had from the public.'

Don't miss it!

So with so much to see and do in a warm, community setting, be sure not to miss the Kintyre Agricultural Show for a fantastic day out.

Profit from Milk Recording

Your milk sample – what else can you get out of it?...

Milk samples are taken from each cow and tested for Butterfat, Protein and Somatic Cell counts. Event information is recorded along with animal identities and ancestry data to provide a whole herd picture of Health, Fertility and feeding efficiency.

The Laboratories conform to the highest ICAR quality standards and regularly take part in European ring trial sampling. John's testing meets UKAS accreditation ISO 17025.

- Farmers milk record for many different reasons:
- Improve bulk tank compositional payments
  - Improve 100 day in-calf rate
  - Monitor and manage feed efficiency
  - Reduce Cell Count penalties
  - Develop and implement a herd breeding plan
  - Get expert third parties to analyse the records.

Woodlands contributing to tourism

WOODLANDS in West Argyll are contributing to the area's tourism sector, as figures reveal around 398,000 visits are paid to forests in the area every year.

Forestry Commission Scotland this week revealed that its woodlands in West Argyll such as Knapdale, Lochaweside and Aros Park, are attracting around 14 per cent of their visitors from overseas, higher than the national average of eight per cent.

More than half the visits to the woodlands are taken from people outwith the area who are in the area on holiday or a short break.

The All Forests Survey two report, published by the commission, show walking was the most popular outdoor activity in the woodlands, with 33 per cent taking their dog talking too.

Ardrishaig water festival and gala weekend

THE WATERFRONT in Ardrishaig will be teaming with activity next Saturday, July 26 as the fifth water festival combines forces with the Ardrishaig Gala Weekend.

Rescheduled to avoid a clashing with the Commonwealth Games, the Crinan Canal Water Festival is this year relocating to Ardrishaig, where it will stage its renowned boat building competition with Adam Way and coastal rowing displays.

Performed

Stalls featuring Artmap Argyll, the RNLI, the Scottish Beaver Trial, Argyll and The Isles Coast and Countryside Trust, while music will be performed throughout the day. The Clipperton Project's floating lab, which organises research and education programmes, will be in Ardrishaig to again research the Crinan Canal and Blarbuie Woodland.

The family ceilidh will take place on Friday evening, with music from Cantetach Ceilidh Band, while Saturday morning will see the return of the Great Ardrishaig Bake Off.

Perfecting

Men, women and children are all vying to be crowned winner of their category, with women tasked with perfecting the fruit cake, men a chocolate cake, and youngsters the tastiest Scottish-themed cupcakes.

Ardrishaig's Got Talent will again round off the weekend as people of all ages take to the stage to entertain friends, neighbours and visitors.

Duntrune Trekkers Blair Johnston, Duncan McGregor and John Kennedy launched the art auction at the Coffee Shop in Crinan on Monday. 06_a29dun01

Duntrune Trekkers to auction off Jolomo original painting

TEACHER turned world famous artist Jolomo has offered a helping hand to his former Lochgilphead High School students who are raising cash for causes close to his heart.

Jolomo - John Lowrie Morrison - donated an original painting to the Duntrune Trekkers Art Auction after learning the men were climbing Mount Kilimanjaro to raise money for three charities.

Raise money

The trekkers, Blair Johnston, Duncan McGregor and John Kennedy, will climb the 19,000ft mountain in a bid to raise money for the MS Centre in Lochgilphead, Rainbow Valley and Lauren Currie Twilight Foundation.

John said: 'What these guys are doing is incredible. A friend of mine was diagnosed with MS, so to think that my painting might help raise funds for the Lochgilphead MS Centre is just brilliant.'

'Thinking about what Blair, Duncan and John will have to endure when climbing Kilimanjaro, it's going to be tough - so I wanted to paint something that gave a real sense of calm and stillness.'

John's oil painting Evening Gloaming - Isle of Gigha, was inspired by the peace and tranquillity of the most southerly Hebridean Island; it is estimated to be worth in excess of £2,200.

'Duncan said: 'When you are in school you don't always appreciate what your teachers do until later in life.'

Newspapers

'The week before we met Jolomo he'd been all over the national newspapers and his name is always written alongside the likes of Sting.'

'We hadn't expected anymore than five minutes with him, and we ended up chatting for over an hour. He is great guy and we're really grateful that he donated, not only his artwork but an original and signed painting to our cause.'

Jolomo is one of 30 artists to have contributed to the auction which is currently taking bids via ebay. The event culminates in a live auction at the Crinan Hotel tomorrow (Saturday) at 5pm.

The auction includes works by Sian Macqueen, Rob Walker and Francis Macdonald.

Thriving artists

Duncan added: 'There's a huge number of thriving artists in the Argyll area, the vast majority who have contributed work to our auction, so it's going to be a real celebration of Scottish art and community spirit. We hope people get involved and dig deep.'

Farmers advised to pause before wholecrop harvest

Farmers considering harvesting cereals for wholecrop are advised to pause and consider their winter feeding stocks before filling another clamp with forage. Andy Strzelecki, technical director from feed and forage preservation specialists Kelvin Cave Ltd, said: 'Many farmers are experiencing their best growing season for years and already have plentiful supplies of high quality forage in stock.'

'However, they will generally expect to buy in concentrates over the winter, and yet they may be overlooking the potential of highly digestible, high energy concentrate feed they are growing on their own farm.'

'Although they may have sown wheat, barley, oats or triticale with a view to harvesting as wholecrop forage, in a growing season such as this they have the potential to extract a far greater value from the crop by harvesting a little later.'

Mr Strzelecki extolled the benefits of harvesting later in the year, including nutritional benefits for livestock.

He said: 'The storage requirements are as simple as those for forage - there are no costs for drying grain and the feed is harvested and preserved at its optimum nutritional value - more of the energy and protein are available to the animal in cereals harvested at 35-45 percent moisture than the same crop harvested dry.'

The crimped product is also proven to create far less acid loading on the rumen than dried grain.'

A further advantage to harvesting moist grain for crimping comes through the timing, which, at around three to four weeks before the main cereal harvest, is often popular with contractors.

Farmers are being advised to consider crimping for a more nutritionally beneficial winter feed.

He added: 'There are so many wins to be gained from crimping that contractors are definitely catching on and increasingly investing in crimping equipment.'

'Increasing numbers of the UK's leading beef and dairy producers are using crimp as a major component of their rations and slashing their feed costs per litre of milk or per kilo of beef.'

Demand remains strong in Scottish housing market

RICS (the Royal Institution of Chartered Surveyors) UK Residential Market Survey, June 2014

House price gains in June remained positive across Scotland, as demand for property continues to grow across the country, according to the latest RICS UK Residential Market Survey.

Demand continued to outstrip supply, with a net balance of 32 per cent of chartered surveyor reporting a growth in new buyer enquiries, teamed with just 1 per cent reporting an increase in new instructions during June. Continued demand was also reflected in the newly agreed sales balance – a good indicator of market activity – which has shown a steady pace of growth since February 2013.

In the month that saw the Bank of England introduce a 15 per cent cap on high (4.5 times and above) mortgages, respondents also perceived banks to be lending less, with average Loan to Value (LTV) ratios among first time buyers dropping for the second consecutive month in Scotland to 85.4 per cent down from 88 per cent in April.

Scottish house prices, however, remained stable, as a net balance of 57 per cent of respondents reported an increase in prices in June, from 34 per cent in May. Looking ahead, the number of respondents expecting prices to rise, rather than fall over the next three months remained steady at 40 per cent from 44 per cent in May.

The Bank of England's recent introduction of a ceiling on high loan to income lending and a 3 per cent interest rate stress test is unlikely on its own to have an immediate influence on the market. However, rhetoric from key officials at the bank, including Mark Carney alongside the consequences of the introduction of the MMR (Mortgage Market Review) is already slowing momentum, particularly in London.

Sarah Speirs, Director RICS Scotland said: 'In Scotland we continue to see demand exceeding supply and this has a direct impact on prices. While we do expect this to level out as summer months continue, the lack of supply is a key factor driving the Scottish market and one which will be addressed within the Scottish Housing Commission's recommendations published later this month.'

Andrew Hitchen of J & E Shepherd, Stirling commented: 'New buyer enquiries and completed transactions remain high, however, new vendor instructions have dipped as expected and the lack of supply continues to suppress the market.'

Thought for the Week

with Marilyn Shedden

I HAD the pleasure of judging the dogs at the pet show last Saturday and what a delight it was to see so many happy well cared for animals.

Despite the overcast skies and threat of rain, the atmosphere was upbeat and folks were enjoying the fun of the day.

Before the dog judging, I had a wander round the other animals and was enchanted with cute cats, beautiful bunnies and gorgeous guinea-pigs.

Soon, however, it was time for the dogs and some tough decisions had to be made.

I think the hardest class was when I was presented with a ring full of waggy-tailed labradors. Each one was intent on beguiling me and greeted me like a long lost friend.

It is hard to pick out the best, and someone is always going to be disappointed if their precious pooch doesn't pick up the cup or a 1st rosette.

As well as the main requirements of the breed, other factors need to be considered too.

A happy and well loved dog will look good and move well. A dog can have all the right attributes for its breed, but if it doesn't look proud and confident, and isn't happy, the good points don't show so well. Is this not just like people too?

Sometimes we look at film stars and models as they pose and posture and think they look wonderful.

Yet if there is no inner happiness, their beauty is indeed just skin deep.

But how often we see someone very ordinary whose eyes twinkle with mischief and whose smile is readily available as a different kind of beauty shines out.

So too with our four-legged friends.

Often it is the little moggy that totally captivates our hearts and brings untold happiness.

Beauty is in the eye of the beholder and love is the prize.

CRINAN CANAL

Canal cottages revamped

TWO COTTAGES on the Crinan Canal have been redeveloped as part of Scottish Canals' drive to market some of the properties to holiday makers.

The national water authority has teamed up with Cottages and Castles Ltd and interior designer Emma Clanfield to redesign and market Seaview and Bannatyne cottages for let.

Emma from Aberdeenshire was asked to fit-out' the properties to a high, comfortable standard but one that respected their heritage.

Emma said: 'I have just finished Seaview Cottage at Crinan which has to be my favourite so far. I gave the property a strong retro feel with old school posters of seashells and painted vintage furniture from the 1950s, alongside kiln dried tree trunk sections as side tables around them to give a nautical feel.

'The bathroom was even tiled in white with a red stripe running around the shower area to reflect the lighthouse visible from the bathroom window.'

games such as 'beat the goalie'.

For hungry young players and their families there will be barbecue and other hot food available.

Carradale manager Nonnie Macalister said: 'We wanted to put on a fun day for the kids and their families in a different setting for most of them, and to give people in Carradale a chance to see some of Kintyre's future footballers.

'We will be awarding medals to the teams and we will have a prize for top goal scorer, but most of all we want the kids and their families to have an enjoyable afternoon in the village.

'Whatever profit we make will be going towards equipment for the kids. It's also about putting something back into the village.'

The mini-tournament will start at 1pm at Well Park.

Special day as sports volunteers are honoured

A YOUNG man who has already made a huge impact in his community and a woman who has been coaching tennis and badminton for 40 years have been named Argyll and Bute's sports volunteers of the year.

William MacKinnon from Campbeltown was named Young Sports Volunteer of the Year and Helen Waddell, of Toward, adult Sports Volunteer of the Year at the Queen's Baton Relay celebration in Du-noon on Sunday.

Over the past two years William has been an enthusiastic, committed sports leader and young ambassador, dedicating ten hours of his own time each week to sports coaching.

He supports after school clubs for children from nursery up to secondary school age, helps deliver sports festivals, curriculum sessions and community sports clubs. William said: 'I'm amazed and overwhelmed to have won - I didn't expect it at all.'

Helen won her award for her lifetime contribution to sport.

She has been coaching tennis and badminton in Toward and Du-noon for 40 years. She has coached two generations of players and has played a huge part in sport across Cowal.

'It's been an absolute privilege to work with young people and see them learning and having fun in a sport that has given me huge enjoyment over many years,' she said.

Argyll and Bute provost Len Scoullar said: 'They are real ambassadors and Argyll and Bute can rightly be proud of them.'

'It is a privilege to recognise their considerable achievements on this very special day.'

Lochgilphead golf week voted a success

MORE than 200 people took part in Lochgilphead Golf Club's Golf Week, designed to encourage people of all ages to try the sport.

The family fun day on Sunday saw parents bring their children to the club and play fun chipping, putting and long driving games near the clubhouse, where food, refreshments and laughter were provided in abundance.

The Lochgilphead Open and Senior Open on Saturday were very nearly a washout but more than 50 hardy souls persevered and played through the weather to make the event a success.

The winners were: open winner: R McGlynn; scratch champion: S Gilmour; senior champion: A MacAulay; junior champion: Ali Cupples; junior scratch champion: Andrew Cupples; ladies champion: M MacKinnon.

David Sinclair from Lochgilphead Golf Club said: 'I would like again to thank players who travelled from other clubs on a wet day to make our open event a success.'

'Lochgilphead Golf Week was achieved thanks to a lot of hard work from our green-keeping staff and the generosity of our sponsors, the Mid Argyll Youth Forum, R.A.Clements, Mid Argyll Round Table and McLean Electrical.'

'There is no doubt that several of the young boys and girls who were hitting balls on Sunday will be future club champions.'

This weekend sees the start of the four-round Lochgilphead Golf Club Championship.

Youngsters urged to join Highland Games circuit

Inveraray Highland Games draws track and field athletes from near and far. 06_a29inv25

On your marks - ladies only

FOR THE first time, it is hoped to hold a ladies only race at Inveraray Highland Games.

The distance is likely to be 1,600 metres and handicapped with starts given according to age and ability.

With many women in Argyll currently running and jogging to keep fit and improve their health, it is hoped some of the more competitive runners will support this new event at the Inveraray games on Tuesday.

The ladies mile should take place at around 2pm.

THE HIGHLAND As well as the junior Games season is well underway in Argyll and several junior track and field events are being held to encourage more local young athletes to take part.

Young people in Mid Argyll are being urged to sign up for the Inveraray Games which get underway at Winterton Park on Tuesday.

There will be separate events for boys and girls between the ages of 11 and 15 years, with the 90metre sprint and 600metre run taking place alongside the high jump, long jump and shot putt; the two track races being on a handicap basis according to age and ability.

Inveraray Highland Games is the first of three Argyll events which will be run as a series, allowing athletes to accrue points in a bid to take the overall junior championship title.

The other events in the league include Mull Highland Games on Thursday and Oban Highland Games on Thursday, August 28; prize money will be up for grabs at each event.

As well as the junior events at the three Highland games, there is a full programme of senior events - 16 years and over - in two categories, with local events confined to athletes born or resident in Argyll and open events.

To compete in the open events athletes will have to register with the Scottish Highland Games Association for the day or for the season.

Junior athletes at both Inveraray and Mull games next week should enter on the field between 10am and 10.30am, with the first event likely to start at 10.30am.

The three junior competitions are sponsored by Mull Athletic Club, Mid Argyll Athletic Club and Argyll and Bute Local Athletics Partnership, and each event is affiliated to the Scottish Highland Games Association.

Further information on the junior events at Inveraray and Mull can be obtained by contacting Bill MacCallum on 01546 602664.

Anglers battle it out for crown

LOCH Fyne Sea Angling Club's Triples Competition was contested at Loch Etive on Sunday.

With a number of anglers on holiday the triples became a doubles competition and, despite the lack of numbers, the anglers from the club made sure it was a hotly contested match with only six points separating the top two.

Species landed throughout the day included spurs, thornback ray and cod with 53 counting fish landed between the three boats.

Scott Rankin and Johnny Munro accrued 110 points to secure the annual trophy, followed by father and son pairing of Robert and Steven MacBrayne from Ardrishaig on 104. Third place went to John Taxi and Gary Sinclair with 75 points.

Strachur

STRACHUR avenged a 5-1 defeat to their Argyll rivals Kyles Athletic on Saturday with a 2-1 victory in South Division One League.

Strachur's Duncan MacNicol secured the victory with a late goal in an unexpected result for a team that has struggled to gain points in recent weeks.

It was MacNicol that opened the scoring on 20 minutes and Kyles' Matthew McColl equalised soon after the break. But MacNicol's second goal in 75th minute secured the win.

The win marks a turn around in form for Strachur who have lost their past four league games.

The Cowal men play away to Ballachulish tomorrow (Saturday). The game kicks off at 2.30pm.

SHINTY

Kilmory

KILMORY'S troubles in the league continued on Saturday as the team was defeated by Lochside Rovers.

The Mid Argyll men put two past the Oban side but it wasn't enough to secure a win.

Alister MacArthur secured both Kilmory's goals in the away game, while Rovers' goals came from Jonathon Will (2) and Alex Dunning.

Kilmory return to league duty tomorrow for another difficult encounter as they take on Kyles Athletic at home.

Hamilton Accies win D&K Cup

THE ANNUAL Oban Saints football tournament came of age last Saturday with the 21st running of the D&K Cup played at Mossfield Stadium and Glencruitten Park.

Hamilton Accies took their first team squad to Oban and won a competitive tournament pipping Alloa Athletic who also took their first team to squad to the competition.

Former Red Star goalkeeper Thomas MacCulloch turned out for Oban Saints and performed well between the sticks.

Lottery numbers

THE jackpot in Tarbert Football Club's lottery has reached £900 as another week passes without a winner. The numbers this week were 12, 13 and 16.

The numbers in this week's Inveraray Shinty Club lottery were 6, 10 and 12. There were no winners and the jackpot will be £200 next week.

There were no winners in this week's Kilmory Shinty Club lottery with numbers 2, 11 and 17 drawn. The jackpot will be £200 next week.

Rain fails to dampen spirits at Inveraray gents open

INVERARAY golfers were at the forefront of the net competition when the royal burgh club invited friends, neighbours and old rivals to compete in its annual Gents Open on Saturday.

Despite the wet weather there was a good turnout of players from various clubs to participate on the Inveraray course, which was in excellent condition and proved a stern but fair test for the golfers. The rain did not dampen the enthusiasm of the players and there was some fine rounds put together.

In the scratch category the winner was Stevie MacKinnon from Torrance House Golf Club with a 75; second place went to Lochgilphead Golf Club's Steven Gilmour on 77 and third went to Graeme MacColl from Glencruitten Golf Club with 79.

In the net competition it was Inveraray players to the fore with the winning round coming from Rory Campbell with an impressive net 65; second went to Jimmy Kerr with 67 and in third place was Lorne Campbell with a 72.

The club has thanked the main sponsor of the event, The George Hotel, for its support and local businesses and individuals who donated raffle prizes. It is back to regular action on Sunday with the Hydro Claret Jug Pairs.

Bruce heads race for top honours at Tarbert Golf Club

BRUCE MacNab is enjoying good form at Tarbert Golf Club this month as he heads up the race for the championship title and Handicap Cup.

Competing in the first two rounds of the Tarbert Golf Club Championship at the weekend, Bruce secured 141 over the two matches. He was closely followed by Duncan Johnstone on 142, while John MacNab and Iain Macalister both took third place with 144.

An overall score of 129 in the Handicap Cup means Bruce and old rival Duncan are also leading the competition which will conclude this weekend, July 19 and 20.

Meanwhile Chris Smyth, Archie Black and Iain Macalister could still take a win as they all sit in the third place with an overall score of 130.

Triumph for Ardrishaig bowlers

BOWLERS from across Argyll descended on Ardrishaig Bowling Club on Sunday as the Invitation Triples got underway.

Players from Oban, Lochgilphead and Tarbert were welcomed to Ardrishaig but it was a local trio that proved victorious after a good day's bowling in fine weather.

Ardrishaig's Jim Dollan, Donald MacLachlan and George Annan were named the winning team of the competition. Oban's Mike Kelly, Anne MacDougall and Neil Douglas were runners up.

Invitational pairs

The next event at the bowling club is in the Donald MacDonald Funeral Directors sponsored Invitational Pairs on August 2, when it is hoped there will be a similarly good turnout of competitors.

Beach boys have fun at training

MEMBERS of Red Star Football Club were seen getting to grips with the great outdoors as their pre-season training started in earnest this week.

Inveraray Shinty Club's John Kennedy put the boys through their paces, ensuring plenty of fast paced running ahead of the team's first match next month.

The boys ran to Kilmory Woods, through Lochgilphead town centre and out towards Ardrishaig where they were marched onto the sands of Loch Gilp.

'Ice bath'

The players could be seen leaping through the air as they practiced jumping on the spot before they enjoyed an 'ice bath' in the nearby burn. Red Star will be training twice a week ahead of the 2014/15 season when they will return to compete in Scottish Amateur Football League's Premier Two.

Argyll South Pony Club hold annual camp at Skipness

The weather was fantastic apart from one huge deluge when the campers took their ponies swimming and as everyone was soaking wet anyway it hardly seemed to matter. a29pony01no

SKIPNESS was the venue for the Argyll South Pony Club's annual camp with the accommodation being top class self catering courtesy of the James family.

This year there were three groups being instructed by Sheila Thom, Sheila MacCallum and Leanne Houston and the Camp 'mums' were Ulla Riddell and Melissa James.

Enjoyed

The instruction was enjoyed by all the youngsters and many achievement badges were awarded during the week which culminated in competition day.

The Prizegiving displayed a fine array of silverware and rosettes on the table and the happy campers and tired ponies celebrated a week of fun, luxury living and excellent equitation.
