

Council officers ordered to gather more information about facts in proposal documents

School closure plans to be re-examined

THE decision to consult on the possible closure of 26 rural schools was deferred for three weeks at a special meeting of Argyll and Bute Council.

Council officers have been ordered to reassess facts within school closure proposals in a bid to clarify any 'fundamental flaws'.

Executive director for education Cleland Sneddon give an absolute assurance to children that they will not be forced to travel for more than 45 minutes to their new school.

Any such school would immediately be excluded from threat of closure.

He also did not rule out other schools being crossed off the list of amalgamations 'if there were reasons to keep them open that were drawn out from the con-

Protestors from schools across Argyll gathered outside Argyll and Bute Council's headquarters on Tuesday afternoon to lobby councillors. 06 a45sch01

School closure protestors out in force at council HQ

A DREICH day on Tuesday afternoon reflected the mood of protestors outside Argyll and Bute Council's headquarters.

Parents, pupils, family, friends and members of the community from across Argyll and Bute turned out to demonstrate against the council's proposals to amalgamate schools.

As councillors and council officials made made from schools in Oban, Mull, Luss and Kintyre. The only representation made from a Mid Argyll school was the Drynan family from Achahoish, who attended the protest with Morna Whyte, a recently retired Achahoish teacher.

'Our school is part of the community and that's the way it needs to stay. If the school closes then it will be hard to recruit people to the area.'

Morna Whyte, who taught at Achahoish for several years, said: 'I want to lend my support to the school. I totally refute all the arguments made by the council to close Achahoish.'

Parents and pupils of Glassary Primary School also gathered on Tuesday to protest against the possible closure of their school. One parent, whose children attend Glassary Primary said: 'It's disgusting. The council really don't care about what happens to rural communities.'

Keith Drynan said: of Dunadd Community Council, which includes Glassary and Kilmichael, said: 'It seems to be that the council's policies are working against each other. The whole concept is potentially devastating to rural communities.

The Mid Argyll schools which could be amalgamated are: Achahoish into Ardrishaig; Glassary and Minard into Lochgilphead; Ashfield into Tayvallich.

Parent councils from the affected schools in Mid Argyll have been giving their reactions to the proposals.

ACHAHOISH Primary School Parent Forum released a statement following the announcement that their school could be amalgamated with Ardrishaig Primary.

'We, the parent forum, refute the argument put forward in the proposal document to close Achahoish Primary School.

'We are very disappointed with the proposal, especially when we have a new school which was purpose build.

'We have the full support of the community and intend to stand against the proposal and to defend our children's education and the future of Achahoish Primary School.'

Speaking on behalf of Minard Primary School Parent Council, Liz Feeney, said: 'The Parent Council convened a meeting in advance of the announcement because there was an expectation that Minard would be targeted for closure.

'The meeting was open to anyone with a connection to the school.

'There was universal support for action to fight the closure proposals. Council restrictions on employees speaking against the proposals, including threats of dismissal, caused a lot of concern as many parents work for the council, but there were willing volunteers from families and community to support the campaign.'

Gordon Parker, chairman of Glassary Parent Council, said: 'There is unanimous support within our community to fight any proposal for closure.

'The document contains many inaccuracies, shows no clear educational benefits for children in closing the school and would purely be a financial exercise by the council.

'The proposal it would seem is to spend vital funds putting children from our village as young as four on a service bus, unattended, along a road that is all too often closed by flooding to receive their education.

'Our school is the heart and soul of our village and closure would have far reaching consequences on both our children and community.

Chairman of Ashfield Parent Council, Alka Foster, said: 'Ashfield parents believe that the proposal to amalgamate Ashfield and Tayvallich primary schools will be to the severe detriment of all the children involved.

'Ashfield School delivers an excellent education and is the lifeblood of the the village. Its facilities both inside and out are far superior to most other school buildings in the area and its potential is limitless.

'It would be very short-sighted to close this school building as it has at least a 50 plus year life span, is fully paid for and currently provides hot meals for both schools.

'This is probably my best year in competitive piping,' said Angus. 'I was so proud of the band this year and it was great to win the Glenfiddich again.'

The invitational event sees the world's 10 best pipers compete in a March, Strathspey and Reel and a Piobaireachd, with the best aggregate score taking the overall title.

Angus said: 'I was pleased with how the two performances went and that's all you can ask for.

'I was delighted that Stuart and William were

Angus topped the standings in the Piobaireachd, ahead of William, and was second in the March, Strathspey and Reel behind Stuart. Angus also praised fellow competitor Faye Henderson of Kirriemuir, who, at 18 years of age, was the youngest player to compete in the Glenfiddich championship.

Faye also made piping history in Oban this summer as the first woman to win the Argyllshire Gathering gold medal.

But the remote location

RESIDENTS of North Kintyre can be forgiven for thinking they were seeing things as giant salmons pens flew through the air last week.

Described as a 'major logistical headache' by Barcaldine based aquaculture equipment manufacturer Fusion Marine, the company had the arduous task of delivering a consignment of salmon pens to a remote hill loch in Loch Garasdale, near Carradale.

Upgrade Northern Isles Salmon Ltd wanted to upgrade their smolt growing op-

Litter louts targeted in new blitz

By Connor Boyd A ROADSIDE litter blitz has been launched by Argyll and Bute Council and Strathclyde Police.

The two organisations have joined forces to target litterbugs as part of the Keep Scotland Beautiful special campaign day.

The campaign has been launched in a bid to highlight the problem of litter thrown away by both drivers and pedestrians in the Mid Argyll area.

Concern has been raised about litter in Colchester Square, Lorne Street car park and the entrances to school grounds.

PC Richard Barrie

said: 'There is litter everywhere but trying to catch people in the act is difficult.'

Police officers and council workers will be going on foot patrol once a month specifically to address the problem of litter.

Teenagers

Teenagers, in particular, are being targeted, with police officers visiting schools to educate young people about litter and the consequences of not looking after their community. 'Anything that can be put in a bin is litter,' said PC Barrie.

'It's sheer laziness, if there is a bin near by use it.'

Councillor Robert

Macintyre, Argyll and Bute's spokesman for economy, environment and rural affairs said litter has a detrimental effect on tourism in the area.

He said: 'Littering in Argyll is spoiling the beautiful areas of the country, which is therefore spoiling the enjoyment for visitors and residents; with the litter becoming more apparent now the undergrowth is dying.'

Those seen dropping litter by either a police officer or council worker can be served with a £50 fixed penalty.

More serious offences such as fly tipping can carry a fine up to £2,500.

Wild side to lantern parade

GIANT caterpillars and enormous snails will light up Lochgilphead tomorrow night (Saturday).

A selection of largerthan-life pictures of wildlife will be projected onto the side of a building in the town as part of the annual Lantern Procession. The photographs have been taken by fourth year pupils from Lochgilphead High School, as part of a Scottish Natural Heritage (SNH) project. The images will depict a selection of the wonderful wildlife found at Moine Mhor bog that lies to the north of the town.

The outdoor projection is the latest step in a two year photography project with Lochgilphead High School, called Snapberry Take II. Based around nature reserves in Mid Argyll, the project finds novel ways to put young people in touch with nature.

In mid September an exhibition of their photographs in the Archway Gallery in Lochgilphead raised almost £1000 for the Red Cross Pakistan Appeal.

Dramatic exhibition from Goodheir and McFadyen

GILLIAN Goodheir and Lex McFadyen combine to provide an exciting and dramatic exhibition at Lochgilphead's Archway Gallery until November 21.

Both artists studied at Glasgow School of Art and worked in Glasgow, Gillian as a teacher and Lex as a fashion designer, before moving to Argyll, later working as full time artists. Each has responded to the local environment in a very different way.

Working exclusively in Gouache, Gillian's landscapes display subtlety and range from the gentle White Sands, Iona to the brooding darkness of Big Waves and other wave studies of Iona and Tiree.

Lex McFadyen and Gillian Goodheir.

Her love of colour and texture is amply demonstrated in her impeccable flower studies, where we can almost smell their scent or feel the softness of the petals, which contrast dramatically with the hard texture of their containers or adjacent objects.

Her sense of humour and love of animals shines through the delightful studies Grand Entrance and the strutting cockerel in The New Boy.

Lex's pastel landscapes are on a smaller scale but display considerable power and emotion, as do the glowing oranges of his oils Arisaig Light and Rest and be Thankful.

It is in his mixed media figure studies that he displays his craftsmanship to the fullest extent.

Three male figures dominate the gallery not just because of their size but their sheer strength of feeling and emotion.

In Adoration is literally an icon – the three quarter length figure crowned with a gold leafed halo reveals the true meaning of the now much over used word.

It contrasts with a similar sized nude male figure covered with Maori tattoos - In Trust. The third study is of Paisley born Justin Currie, better known as Del Amitri which is a tribute to the rock star of the 1980s and 1990s.

This is an exhibition of contrasts but one in which all art lovers will find much to enjoy and something to inspire and uplift them. Brian Blench

- 1 shallot (diced)
- 1 cup risotto rice
- 1 Handful of wild mushrooms
- 1 handful of pine kernels
- 1 clove garlic (crushed)
- $\frac{1}{2}$ glass white wine
- 1 pint mushroom stock (chicken stock is just as good)
- 1Tbsp grated parmesan Method:
- Sauté shallots and garlic in olive oil until tender
- Add rice and sauté for a further 2 minutes
- Add wine and reduce by half
- Add ¹/₂ pint of your stock and simmer gently

add another 1/2 pint of stock

• The rice is cooked when it has very little bite and the consistency is thick but slightly loose

• Finish with parmesan and serve.

Chefs' top tip: To make it extra special why not put some rocket or freshly picked sorrel over the top and a drizzle of truffle oil and parmesan shavings. Richard Watson, Chef De Partie

Lochgilphead Drama Club presents - CinderFella

IT'S A World premiere!

CinderFella, an exciting new pantomime, will be on offer in Ardrishaig Public Hall next Friday and Saturday, (November 12/13) at 7.30pm with a matinee at 2.30pm on Saturday presented by Lochgilphead Drama Club.

The pantomime, written by club member, Jim Morrison, tells the story of the unfortunate Andy Boot, played by Charlie MacLean, who is bullied by his cruel step mother, Lady Boot, Ruth Morrison, and her spoiled sons, Denzil and Basil, Jim Thorpe and Jim Innes. And, of course, they call Andy, CinderFella.

With the help of the Good Fairies, protesting foxhounds, friendly foxes, nice little gnomes and Dobbin, his four legged friend, CinderFella faces many challenges including King Broon's executioner and the dangers of the dingy Forest of Grimwood.

The question is - will CinderFella meet with his one and only, the Princess Kimberly, played by Mary Campbell, her first time in a pantomime, or will Lady Boot and her diabolical plan come out on top?

Lively Singing

Experienced pantomime performers, Liz Fraser, Queen Sarah, John Warmerdam, Executioner, Tim Williams, King Broon, and some very lively singing and acting from the children performing as foxhounds, foxes, gnomes and forest imps, ensure that the show sparkles from beginning to end.

The cast have been rehearsing with great enthusiasm for the last few weeks to make sure the pantomime is the best yet. To avoid disappointment, tickets can be purchased at Argyll Book Centre, Lochgilphead or at the door before the performance. Come and see CinderFella, and join in the fun.

Were you a guide or a Brownie?

These are all the young Rainbows Brownies and Guides of Kintyre who braved the rain and held a lantern parade last week led by the Machrihanish Dunes Sound of Kintyre Pipe Band. They were marking 100 years of Guiding. So we'd like to ask all you old Girl Guides and Brownies out there to dig through your old photographs and send them in for us to publish as part of the centenary year.

Activity Day

THERE were not just creepy crawlies in Campbeltown Community Organic Garden on Sunday, but children dressed and skeletons and cats too.

To celebrate Halloween the garden organised an activity day with story telling and crafts, with lots of treats and food on offer too.

A FINE display of flowers arrangements were on show for the Southend Parish Church's flower festival.

The congregation of the church made the arrangements, some with unusual additions like fruit, to coincide with the thanksgiving harvest.

The event was organised to raise funds towards the renovation of the church manse.

Ardfern Hall nearly ready

THE NEW Craignish Village Hall is nearing completion and is due to open in November after eight years of fundraising, hard work and generous donations from individuals and organisations.

Funders include The Big Lottery Fund, the ERDF, Argyll and Bute Council, Argyll and the Islands Enterprise, ALIenergy and the Scottish Arts Council.

Designed by Tom McCardel Architect and built by L and M Mackay, the new building will have three halls, a kitchen fitted out to commercial standards, disabled facilities and a shower.

Bright future for Cammy

YOUNG Lochgilphead footballer Cammy Macdonald's hopes of securing a full-time contract with Premier League side Livingston have received a massive boost, following an invitation to train and play with the first team during the October break.

Sixteen-year-old Cammy has been a regular member of the under 17 youth team, which has enjoyed an impressive run of performances at the start of the season, including wins over Hibernian, Hamilton Academical, Inverness Caledonian Thistle, Celtic and Motherwell.

Having secured draws with Rangers, Hearts and Kilmarnock, the side's only defeat to date was at the hands of Dundee United. Coaches Alex Cleland and Paul Connelly are pleased with the U17's performances and the standards.

Thought for the Week with Marilyn Shedden

THE Arran hills wrapped the blanket of soft grey mist around them and snuggled in against the wild winds.

Up on deck on the ferry from Cloanaig to Lochranza, the wind whipped away our words and tossed high the dancing spray like confetti at a wedding.

The wee boat listed from side to side as she made her way bravely through the rolling sea and the horizon seemed to disappear from view.

Then I noticed that the ferryman was making a loop rather than going straight across and I wondered if I should start to worry!

But as I lifted my eyes from the sea to the hills above, a gentle ray of a fragile sun lit up the top of Goat Fell and filled the glen below with light.

The clouds rolled back and the sun danced on the waves as dolphins appeared by the side of the boat to take us by surprise. The skilled ferryman got us safely across and we were duly guided ashore.

I remembered another day and another storm

Don't let Mid Argyll fall behind

Sir, Further to last week's article about the possibility of super fast broadband in Mid Argyll, I would like your readersto be aware of the fol-lowing about BT's Raceto Infinity:1. Businesses - not just households but local businesses may also vote to have the 01546 exchange fast-tracked onto this new medium. You just need your postcode and telephone number to vote. Furthermore, should Lochgilphead be one of the winners, faster broadband connections would undoubtedly attract future business to the area.

2. Demand - the five winning exchanges will be those with the greatest percentage of the local population voting; not total demand as implied by your article. So, just because we are

3. BT - although the necessary infrastructure will be supplied by BT, you do not need to be a current BT Broadband customer to vote. If your telephone number begins 01546 then you can help your local community acquire this valuable asset for its future development.

4. Commitment - in voting for the Lochgilphead exchange you are not committing yourself to a penny in personal expenditure. But ted to supplying £5000 worth of computing equipment to a deserving cause in each of the winning areas. I am sure we can all think of organisations that would benefit from that. In conclusion: Why would you not vote? Don't let Mid Argyll be left behind! Vote now at: racetoinfinity.bt.com and tell your friends.

Roads department praise

> past weeks, I have occasionally gone out to West Bank Road, near to our house, to clear the road drains. Falling leaves frequently block them, causing appreciable flooding to the distress to the few pedestrians who have to use the road, as there is no footpath. Fortunate car owners can, and do, charge on regardless. This time, the blockages beat me, largely due to the ineffectiveness of my blockageclearing apparatus (my window brush handle), so I gave the Roads Department a call, gave the pleasant young lady by the noise of the road squad lorry, and looked out to see them assiduously -and cheerfully, despite impatient car owners- addressing the problem, and clearing the excess water into the Canal, which has plenty of room for it.

With all the moans and groans of present day living, up with which we have to put, isn't it nice to be able to appreciate a listening voice, and a quick response to a little problem? And to say so! Thank you, Argyll and Bute's Road Department. If you have a fan club, consider me joined.

Bobby Holden, Orsay, Ardrishaig.

Cosir Og Dhail Riata thanks

Sir, On behalf of Cosir Og Dhail Riata I would like to express their thanks o the Mid Argyll community for all their support over the past year.

The choir, taught by Fiona Munro and Christine Johnston, had a very successful Mòd in Thurso, winning the Martin Wilson Trophy for Puirt-a-beul, the Tom Crawford Trophy for Two Part Harmony, and the Jean Walker Trophy for the Highest Marks in Music.

Mid Argyll can be very proud of these girls. The girls attend school at Lochgilphead Joint Campus and Tarbert Academy.

We would also like to thank the staff at the Squeak who are always willing to give us coverage for all that the choir takes part in.

The choir will be taking part in the Fiddlers Rally, supporting the RNLI on November 13 at the Lochgilphead Joint Campus.

So as we drove through Glen Sannox the God of surprises was just ahead of us as we were enchanted by sights of a magnificent stag, a pair of golden eagles, red squirrels and all the glorious colours of autumn. Consultation to be held by tenant farming forum

A FORUM, which aims to promote a healthy tenanted farm sector in Scotland, has given its initial response to the publication of a Scottish Government consultation.

The retiring chairman of the influential Scotland's Tenant Farming Forum (TFF), made up of organisations representing both landowners and tenants, is Professor Jeff Maxwell.

Commenting on the 'Proposals to Amend the Agricultural Holdings Act 1991 and 2003', consultation, he said: 'The initial reaction from the TFF is to welcome the proposals in this consultation which have the potential to deliver many of the positive changes to the Agricultural Holdings legislation that we sought.

'These have been discussed in some detail with Scotland's Cabinet Secretary for Rural Affairs, Richard Lochhead. 'However, there is disappointment that some elements of the total package for change as sought by the forum have not been included in the proposed amendments to current legislation.

'The omissions are the forum's proposal to widen the class of beneficiary who may succeed to a tenancy to include a grandchild, and its proposal to amend the rent review provisions to prohibit 'upward only' and 'landlord only' initiated reviews."

Farmers urged to try different bedding options

FARMERS are being urged to consider making the most of the different options available for their animal this winter.

With straw prices escalating, Quality Meat Scotland has produced a booklet to help farmers optimise bedding use and consider the wide range of alternative products available to Scottish livestock producers.

Researched According to Ian

Scottish Pritchard, Agricultural College (SAC) Select Services Beef Specialist, who researched the content for the booklet with Dr Basil Lowman and Dr John Vipond, it is well worth farmers putting some thought into how they use bedding most efficiently.

'Some of the tips in the booklet may seem like common sense but too often simple steps which can produce big benefits are overlooked. For example a lot of straw is wasted because of lack of attention to clearing drainpipes before stacking straw in the shed,' said Mr Pritchard.

'Outside storage is also an issue as square bales have a tendency to absorb more rainwater than round bales.

"The overall effect is that when bales are left outside and open to the elements the absorptive capacity is severely reduced. Wet straw is only 10 per cent as effective as a bedding for livestock as dry straw - a lot of wasted money,' he added.

Alternative

The QMS booklet also gives advice on how to reduce straw usage and it flags up the number of alternative bedding products available in different areas of Scotland.

Copies of the booklet can be downloaded from the QMS website www.qmscotland. at co.uk or hard copies are available free of charge by contacting QMS on 0131 472 4040.

Heifers sell well at Oban show and sale

NFU Scotland is to hold a series of meetings around Scotland to explain the ongoing changes to the current Less Favoured Areas Support Scheme (LFASS) and also discuss with farmers the future of LFA, particularly in light of ongoing discussions around reform of the CAP.

'Funding delivered through the LFASS is crucial to a huge number of livestock enterprises across Scotland,' said Jonnie Hall, head of rural policy with NFUS Scotland.

Benefits for business by going gree

A green policy could really pay dividends

ENVIRONMENTAL issues are important considerations for everyone but with government intent on reducing the impact caused by many of our activities there are also benefits for businesses that develop their green credentials.

Argyll and Bute Council's Business Gateway team advises all businesses to think about how a green policy could reap benefits for them.

There are many small ways in which a business can start to reduce its impact on the environment; from choosing to sourcing local products to reduce road and air miles and switching to low energy light bulbs.

Larger scale environmental initiatives include renewable energy and Argyll is fortunate in having a varied topography suitable for many renewable energy technologies including wind, wave and tidal.

Many of the new technologies are currently being tested for commercial viability, such as the array of 10 tidal devices in the Sound of Islay being tested by Scottish Power Renewables with support from Islay Energy Trust.

'Argyll has tremendous potential in the renewable energy sector,' says Councillor Robert McIntyre, Argyll and Bute Council's spokesman on for Economy, Environment and Rural Affairs. 'But all businesses both large and small could use only recycled paper, encouraging employees to car share, benefit by becoming more aware of their impact on the environment and taking steps to reduce it.'

> Business Gateway can support businesses looking to improve their green credentials, with tailored advice on a one to one basis or introduction to organisations offering specialist advice.

> Two focus groups have been set up in Argyll over the last four months with a current membership of around fifteen businesses. Community Energy Scotland is having a twoday conference in Lochgilphead on 13th and 14th November chaired by Ken MacDonald BBC Scotland and Jim Mather MSP respectively.

> For more information on Business Gateway telephone -01546 605459 or email business.gateway@argyll-bute.gov.

Lochgilphead-based firm MacLeod Construction Ltd currently have 20 young apprentices.

Argyll apprentices learning skills for life

YOUNG people in Argyll and Bute are being given the opportunity to learn a trade as well as valuable life skills with one of the areas biggest employers.

At present a total of 20 young people are going through apprenticeships with Lochgilpheadbased building firm, MacLeod Construction Ltd.

Iain Macaskill, contracts manager for MacLeod Construction Ltd, explained: 'About 10 per cent of our workforce is currently going through training.

'We feel it's important to keep employment local, which is why we want to recruit local people.'

The company recruit youngsters from all over Argyll; Oban, Campbeltown, Lochgilphead and the islands. From high school work

HIE create new community development jobs

THIRTY new community development workers have been created as part of a Highlands and Islands Enterprise (HIE) initiative to support the region's most fragile economies.

They are employed directly by key organisations within the communities themselves, to help develop social, economic and cultural activities to strengthen the community. The agency plans to spend almost £1.5 million over the next three years on this aspect of its strengthening communities remit; this cash is being matched by an additional £1 million from the European.

Firework safety plea from police

'It is an offence to set off fireworks in a public place'

POLICE, fire and council representatives have ernment (Scotland) Act 1982 for anyone to lay or joined forces to drive home the safety message associated with Guy Fawkes night.

Whilst everyone is encouraged to have an enjoyable night, officials are advising people to take care in the lead up to, and on, bonfire night.

Traditionally the busiest night of the year for fire fighters across the country, it is hoped that Mid Argyll communities can enjoy a safe fireworks display.

Inspector Neil Wallace said: 'The Mid Argyll Community Policing team would like to remind everyone to act safely and responsibly when using fireworks.

Offence

'It is an offence to set off fireworks in a public place and anyone found doing so will be dealt with robustly and reported to the procurator fiscal or children's reporter.'

Inspector Wallace added: 'I would like to discourage people from organising their own bonfires and to attend an organised event.'

It is an offence under Section 56 of the Civic Gov-light a fire in a public place.

Mid Argyll Councillor, and chairman of the Mid Argyll, Kintyre and Islay Area Committee, Donnie MacMillan, said: 'The council has a responsibility to ensure that retailers who store and sell fireworks are not only registered or licensed as required, but are also selling fireworks which comply with British safety standards.'

Argyll and Bute Council's trading standards team is currently visiting all fireworks retailers in the area to inspect the suitability of their premises and stock.

David Millward, community safety advocate for Strathclyde Fire and Rescue in Lochgilphead, added: 'We wish everyone a safe and enjoyable fireworks night but would like to remind people that the best thing to do it go to an organised event. Firework safety advice can be found on our website and we hope that bonfire night is not our busiest night of the year.'

Homeless talk for SWRI

PRESIDENT Mrs Jean Smith opened the meeting in October by presenting the Shuttlewood Rose Bowl to Elizabeth Scott for overall points in competitions.

She then welcomed the speakers for the evening, Sandy Taylor from Moving on - Mid Argyll, 'MO – MA' and Hugh Kirk from Blue Triangle Housing Association, 'BTHA', who had come to tell us about their associations working together helping the homeless in Mid Argyll.

They explained that homelessness affects about 50,917 households in Scotland and 140 households in Mid-Argyll alone, which adds up to about 78,000 people and around 25,000 of them are children.

Causes of homelessness can be relationship breakdown, drug and alcohol misuses, leaving prison and mental health problems. Age range can be from early teenage years up to 70+ years.

BTHA delivers housing support services to males and females of all ages and all degrees of social exclusion.

Materials

MO - MA is a partnership with local churches fundraising and supplying 'starter packs' containing hygienic duvets and bed linen, a kettle and toaster and a supply of household cleaning and personal hygiene materials.

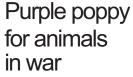

Collecting boxes for any of those items can be found in your local church. All donations will be gratefully received by MO - MA and very much appreciated by those receiving a starter pack.

The competition results were:

Plastic Bag Holder: - Gold: Anne Johnson, Silver: Jean Smith, Red: Helena Gillies, Blue: Elizabeth Scott.

Tablet: - Gold: Elizabeth Scott and Helena Gillies. Special Competition

Rural rented housing seminar in Inveraray

THE SCOTTISH Rural Property and Business Association (SRPBA) staged a seminar for rural rented housing providers in Inveraray last night (Thursday).

SRPBA is held its evening seminar at Inveraray Castle. The event was sponsored by Turcan Connell and Savills titled Money Matters: Making most of your rental income.

The seminar looked at a range of money issues for rented housing providers in the rural sector from pre-tenancy charges and deposits, to managing rent areas, details of local housing markets and updates on new legislation.

Mid Argyll Hospital staff in the pink at coffee morning

Staff at the Mid Argyll Community Hospital held a successful Pink Day coffee morning last Friday (October 29). This year it was decided to split the proceeds between Breast cancer and the new chemotherapy service at Mid Argyll Hospital. The fantastic sum of £2237.39 was raised. Staff would like to thank family, friends, colleagues and members of the public for donations and support. Pictured are all the pink-clad hospital helpers. 06 a45hosp01

Minard gets walking

MINARD residents are starting a walking group on Wednesday evenings.

Anyone in the Minard community who would like some weekly exercise with friends, is welcome to come along for a stroll with their fellow residents; routes are decided on the evening with a general agreement.

All weather clothes are essential, as the walks will carry on regardless of the weather condition.

All participants should meet at the village shop, Wednesday evenings.

RNLI fund-raising awarded

THE CO-operative Group has won a prestigious award in recognition of its fundraising efforts in aid of the RNLI.

The Co-operative was awarded the Partnership Fundraising Award after raising £190,000 in just 90 days.

Staff and customers in Lochgilphead and Ardrishaig contributed to the final total.

The original target, set by the Co-operative, was £90,000, but that was more than doubled.

For more information visit www. johnlogiebairdawards. com.

Staff at the Smiddy Bistro have been asking customers how many items are in their specially designed 'pink hamper'. The Lochgilphead bistro was this year showing its support for Breakthrough Breast Cancer by asking customers to pay £1 to guess the number of items in the hamper, with the person with the correct answer winning the basket full of goodies. Teresa Finnigan from Balloch correctly guessed that the hamper in fact contained 60 items. Almost £500 was raised for the charity. Scottish Sea Farms

Scottish Sea Farms, the UK's leading producer of farmed Atlantic salmon, pride ourselves in creating dynamic, competent teams across the business. We do this by selecting potential "superstars", developing their skillset while adding confidence and depth of experience. With that in mind, we are looking to recruit the next generation of senior husbandry personnel for our sites in the Linnhe area and Isle of Mull.

MARINE HUSBANDRYMEN

(Isle of Mull)

The ideal candidates will be experienced in the salmon farming environment, be able to demonstrate that they can confidently shoulder responsibility and are keen to progress within the Company. Exemplary fish welfare practice and close attention detail, coupled with strong interpersonal skills are also desirable qualities for these positions. The salary package starts at £18.5k + allowances and includes DCS pension, performance bonus and other benefits. In addition, subsidised accommodation may also be offered.

SENIOR MARINE HUSBANDRYMEN

(Lismore)

Candidates will have relevant experience in leading small teams within the marine salmon farming environment and be able to demonstrate that they are the stuff of future managers; totally committed to fish welfare, delivering outstanding biological performance and hungry for success. Applicants will have excellent communication skills and be computer literate. Experience of fish growth and reporting software is also desirable. The salary package starts at £22k + allowances and includes DCS pension, performance bonus and other benefits.

All applicants must possess as a minimum, a Boatmaster Licence (or equivalent) and hold a full UK driving licence.

Under 16s keep defence water tight

AFTER torrential rain over the last week, Ropework Park dried up just in time to allow Lochgilphead U16s to host their league game against St Convals, from Linwood, with both teams sitting midtable in the Glasgow and District U16s Youth League.

Lochgilphead got off to a flying start with some slick passing movements and strong physical play and were soon rewarded when Stuart MacBrayne found himself in the box, and from a tight angle, blasted the ball into the top right-hand corner of the net. The P MacKerral/Ewos/Lakeland sponsored Lochgilphead side continued to dominate and once again, the versatile Mac-Brayne found the net from the edge of the 18 yard box, with a superb strike.

Convals then St scored their only goal of the game, before Ian MacGuinness replied by blasting a left-footed shot towards goal, which St Convals keeper could only get a finger tip to, before it hit the back of the net. Half-time 3-1

After half time, Ian McGuinness helped himself to his second goal.

The visitors' discipline deteriorated, with referee J Litster doing well to keep the match from boiling over, and one St Convals player saw a red card for an off-theball incident.

Lochgilphead continued to impress with a water-tight defence and some great passing in midfield, allowing Kyle Doull to terrorise the visitors with his fast running down the right

Cup – Round 2

LOCHGILPHEAD Soccer Centre has climbed the first rung of the SFA Quality Mark ladder by achieving the Standard Award. The centre is now working hard to achieve the next level - Community – before aiming high for the Development award.

Run by the Scottish Football Association, the Quality Mark programme ensures there is a standardized structure in place amongst clubs. To achieve the Standard Award the Soccer Centre must ensure that basic club operating standards are in place. SFA representatives, Danny Bisland and Brian McLauchlin, along with Martin Rae, Argyll and Bute Council's Football Development officer, presented the Soccer Centre with their award on Monday (November 1). Martin, who works closely with the Soccer Centre, said: 'This is a great achievement for the club as it shows their commitment and I'd like to thank the coaches who have driven it forward.

'I'm delighted that their hard work has paid off; they've certainly not been a club that's had to be led by the hand.'

Congratulating the team, Councillor Dougie Philand, said: 'I'm delighted that they have achieved this award. It's well deserved as they've put in a lot of hard work and the players will reap the benefits of such good coaching.'

Alan Millar, chair of Lochgilphead Soccer Centre, said: 'I'd like to thank the coaches, committee, sponsors, the SFA and the input we've had from Martin Rae, as well as the continued support of Councillor Dougie Philand.'

Lochgilphead Soccer Centre caters for youngsters from Primary One to 18-year-olds, from across Mid Argyll. They have 25 coaches and run a Saturday morning club, as well as an under nines team, under 12s team, under 14s team, under 16s team and over 16s team.

The Soccer Centre will have their award officially presented to them at a special ceremony in Hampden in Glasgow on November 25.

Scary scores in Hallowe'en thriller

1-4.

By David Sinclair SPOOKY fog covering the course did not frighten the players and it could be said many of the players are better when they can't see what they are doing.

MacAulay without all this fresh talent stealing his points.

Raymond Flanagan did not need to don a Hallowe'en mask as he is a handicap bandit and as such came prepared. His 39 points would have won on a normal week. John Downie used all his lucky charms, his new mat, his electric cart, his new clubs and shoes to record a decent score and it is only a matter of time before he hires a pro to hit the ball for him. How Chris fox can hit the ball well on a foggy Ross. day yet miss it completely on a sunny one is a mystery but he played some magical shots. Phil trouble beating Alec Hemmings also played well and used some of the Ardfern magic at the last hole where his over hit shot rebounded off the wall and ended up beside the pin. David Sinclair feels that with John Downie hovering up all the good luck someone is bound to get the bad stuff and it is usually him. There was no need for a fog horn with John on the course but at the last hole David's ball hit the wall and vanished into the fog and it's at times like these that you can tell that he is related to enhance his Ninja like dancing skills, so playing golf in the fog should have been easy.

Unfortunately he again pulled a muscle when he tripped over the ironing board, fell in the laundry basket and it took Phyllis the rest of the evening to iron things out. Andy Law never gives up but with the scores being so good this week then maybe winning the Mat of Shame was not so shameful. Young Lochgilphead Red Star line-up progress in cup

THE ARGYLL Inn sponsored Red Star travelled to Erskine last Saturday for this West of Scotland cup-tie against Bishopton United. Manager Weir fielded a team made up of youngsters and N Russell and with only three minutes on the clock, G Peacock out-paced the home defence to fire a cross over that Morrison converted passed the helpless keeper.

A couple of minutes later the visitors doubled their lead with Russell playing through G Peacock, his first effort was saved by the keeper but the ball rebounded kindly for the youngster who was able to nod the ball football on the ground in to the net. The Star defence of McAulay, Provan, McIntyre and L Peacock were spectators at this point with Kalache having little to do in goal. Goal number three came in the 12th minute when Docherty made strides down the left and his cross was converted once again by Morrison. The home side were clearly rattled and started dishing out some hefty tackles but the Lochgilphead young side continued to play

Soccer Centre AGM

LOCHGILPHEAD Soccer Centre will hold its annual general meeting next Thursday (November 11).

Everyone is welcome to attend.

The meeting starts at 7pm in Lochgilphead Community Centre.

McDonalds soccer programme

BOYS and girls in Primary Two and Three are being invited to take part in the McDonalds football programme in Lochgilphead.

Last night (Thursday) saw the first of six sessions take place on the astroturf at Lochgilphead Sports Centre.

Get set, go! PUPILS at Craignish Primary School braved the rain on Friday to complete a sponsored walk for charity. The pupils, ranging from the pre-five unit to primary seven, chose to walk either two, four or six miles. Parents and teachers also took part in the walk, which saw the group walk along tracks to neighbouring Lunga Estate and Barrich Beyn. The funds raised will go towards the Pakistan flood victims and Children in Need.

Red hot Jamie wins by knockout

A FORMER Ardrishaig man is making his mark in the world of Muay Thai Boxing.

Jamie Scott fought recently at the Oran Mor in the West End of Glasgow in what was deemed an international bill of fights.

A former student of the Lochgilphead Muay

Thai Boxing Club, Jamie moved to Glasgow to attend college and now trains at the Griphouse, a mixed martial club which has increasingly been emerging as a stable for stars in a number of martial arts.

Although this was Jamie's first fight, he showed the typical composure and technical excellence which he has always demonstrated. Despite his height of 6' 4, Jamie was typically light on his feet equally ready to attack or defend.

A familiar figure at the gym at Lochgilphead Sports Centre, Jamie has lost much of his muscular bulk and slimmed down to a lean 84kg (13st 3lb). His opponent was Ross Woodburn from the Wossabama Gym based in Paisley who have an excellent record for producing exiting and technically exacting fighters. Muscular including 30 seconds into the first round. Ross tried to use his bulk to throw a number of heavy boxing combinations: however, Jamie consistently showed great guard skills to prevent any punches coming through.

Despite being equal in weight, Ross was clearly a good 6" shorter but carried a large muscular frame.

Round one was a demonstration of a range of Muay Thai skills including clinch work which resulted in both heavyweights coming crashing to the canvas.

Round two started the same way as the first with Jamie pressing forward with devastating left kicks and again brought his opponent down who was clearly running out of ideas and switched tactics again with a powerful left kick to the ribs which resulted in the referee intervening and giving Ross a standing 'eight count' to allow him to recover, and Ross was then saved by the bell.

Confidence

From the start of round three, it was clear the Jamie's confidence was growing and persistently stalked Ross around the ring who was nervously keeping a close eye on Jamie's left leg; nonetheless, he failed

The free sessions are being run as a joint venture between McDonalds, the Scottish Football Association and Argyll and Bute Council's Active Schools programme.

Jamie Scott, right, is making waves on the Muay Thai Boxing circuit.

The fight was scheduled for five rounds, however, it ended in the third.

From the start Jamie dominated the centre of the ring and consistently threw strong left kicks to his opponents legs, ribs and head and brought his opponent down a number of times wholly unsure how to manage Jamie's height and powerful kicks.

After driving his opponent into the corner, Jamie switched tactics and moved in to unload a fast boxing combination which ended with powerful a left hook punch to the head after which Ross did well to remain on his feet.

Demonstrating a mature versatility, Jamie
