£26m Grammar school is 'absolutely amazing'

'THIS is a historic day for all of us in the school and the whole community of south Kintyre.' So started the speech of acting head teacher, Catherine Cameron, on Wednesday morning, as she welcomed pupils and staff to Campbeltown's state-of theart school.

'Not many people have the privilege of entering a new school for the first time – this day will remain with you for the rest of your lives.'

Many pupils took their first look round the £26 million building on Wednesday, and as they filed into the hall at 9am, piped by Jacques Huysamer and Fraser MacBrayne, the comments ranged from: 'Oh wow', to 'It's absolutely amazing'. The school, with the capacity for up to 500 pupils, took nearly two years to complete, with the old building yet to be demolished to make way for a car park and 3G sports pitch. Turn to page two for more on the first day in the new school.

21st-century school is an educational masterpiece

Hannah O'Hanlon

WEDNESDAY heralded the end of one era and the beginning of a new one, as Kintyre pupils went to school in a new building.

After years of learning in one of the worst school buildings in the country, which was completed in June 1969 with a life expectancy of 40 years, the children are now at one of the most advanced. Acting head teacher Catherine Cameron told the pupils at a welcoming assembly: 'I want you to enjoy your new school - enjoy it, take care of it, be proud of it and be proud of yourselves.

'This is Campbeltown Grammar School and we have a lot of which to be proud.'

Morrison Construction was behind the £26 million project, carried out by Argyll and Bute Council in partnership with Hub North Scotland Ltd and the Scottish Futures Trust through the Scottish Government's schools for the future programme. Morrison Construction project director Jeff Hedley, said:

'Campbeltown Grammar School is the second of four education facilities we will deliver for Argyll and Bute Council and Hub North Scotland. November.

'Last and teachers pupils moved into Kirn Oban High School. School is the next facility due to be completed this spring and excellent progress is being made on the site of Dunoon Primary.'

Work began on the new school in summer 2016 and was completed on schedule, with the children leaving the old building before the February break, and returning to the new one.

Ms Cameron told the pupils that the school is a place for everyone. 'This is a place where you should all feel you belong, regardless of social background, gender, sexual orientation ... we want to celebrate diversity.'

Argyll and Bute Council's policy lead for education, Councillor Yvonne McNeilly said: 'Today is a very special day for the young people of Kintyre.

Potty white lines cross A83 pothole

PEOPLE have real road rage at the 'genuinely dangerous' A83 from Campbeltown to Tarbet.

Large areas of carriageway are littered with potholes which are often impossible to avoid and if entered at even moderate speeds in the dark may break springs and shred tyres.

A recently announced resurfacing scheme, priced at £0.6 million, will attempt to provide a smooth surface from Inveraray to Whitehouse but for 30 miles south it is just temporary patching.

To compound the misery on Tuesday afternoon, a white-lining truck was spotted by a Courier reader in Muasdale. As Alison Clements watched. it even painted across a deep pothole on the road's crown.

Commenting on A83 Facebook the page, Sandy McKinven wrote: 'Absolute joke! Just seen them painting lines over about 20m of potholes at the end of the windfarm road on Patchan straight, actually unbelievable.

A spokesperson for BEAR Scotland said: 'We contacted our contractor for a full explanation.

'We had instructed our contractor to carry out 600m of white lining on the A83 through Campbeltown between Dalaruan Street and Aqualibrium Avenue.

'As the work did not require use of all of the material that had been prepared, the contractor located a section of road in need of refreshment and used the remainder of the material here.

'The material needs to be fully used up in the machine as it will solidify if left.

Council printing service undercuts businesses

ARGYLL and Bute AS council set its budget yesterday details emerged of how it undercuts local printing businesses.

The council's printroom service can produce 100 business cards for £7.50, according to a quote obtained by the Courier.

The same product bought online, from national supplier MOO, would cost £26.38 and it is a similar price, within a few pence, to the Wyvex Media-owned Krisp Print in Campbeltown. Last week, George Graham, Wyvex group finance director, told The Oban Times, which it owns, along with the Campbeltown Courier: 'It is absolutely deplorable that the council has entered into commercial competition against its own ratepayers.

'The printing industry has been experiencing an exceptionally challenging time nationwide in recent years and, given the already tough trading conditions in Argyll, this move by the council could possibly endanger the jobs of some of the very people it should serve. Being based in Kilmory means it is in direct competition to our own print business in Campbeltown.'

A council spokesperson said: 'We can't comment on other businesses' charges.

'Our focus is on providing a reasonably priced service, with equipment used also for council business, such as printing benefits and creditors cheques. We've been working alongside other similar local businesses for a number of years already.

'Sometimes customers come to us, sometimes they prefer another printer depending on requirements. The income we raise supports the council services on which local businesses and people depend.'

There is one bit of hope for the commercial trade: it took nearly four days to obtain a simple quote for prices from the council.

Fighting scaffolders fined

A SCAFFOLDER hit his pal with a hammer and he responded with a baseball bat in an Esplanade fight.

John Gillespie, 36, of 7 Birgidale Terrace, and Colin Campbell, 40, of Flat 3/1, Raithburn Avenue, both in Castlemilk, Glasgow, admitted a charge of engaging in a stand-up fight on November 7 last year.

After hearing that the pair's long friendship has ended, Sheriff Patrick Hughes said: 'This is an extremely distressing matter for any member of the public to have seen.

Your £400 fine each is a direct alternative to imprisonment.' He added that any failure to pay would result in jail.

ourier.co.uk A COUPLE with a dog named Ceilidh led a BBC film crew on a merry dance for BBC daytime show Getaway for Winter.

Greer and Keith Abendroth, from Campbeltown, and their dogs Venture and Ceilidh star in the BBC 1 afternoon show at 3.45pm next Friday March 2.

This final episode of a 15-part series, narrated by Gloria Hunniford, follows Keith and Greer as they work out how to spend the winter in the sunshine for the same money as it costs to live at home.

By swapping sleet and snow for sand and heat, the premise is that the sun-seekers will change their lives by renting a piece of paradise abroad.

Mysterious Greer, 72, drew the short straw and remained at the couple's Loch View Avenue home while Keith, 75, jetted off to Fuengirola with a pair of cameramen and a pock-etful of free euros to meet mysterious Iranian, Spanish property specialist, Ali from Norwich. Back in Kilkerran Road, Greer was filmed walking the dogs and going about her daily life by Laura Kingwell, of Friel Kean Productions, who had a working holiday based at the Craigard hotel. Keith said: 'We re-

'Majella McNeaney from the production company wanted to do a video interview for selection and, my being very technical, I had to get my mate Duncan Lowrie to help set it up. 'We told them we had not been away for three years. 'I flew out on December 17 from Prest-wick with cameraman Andy Chambers. Another cameraman, who was also the Spanish side producer/director, Chris Greenwood, flew in from Manchester.

'It was a nice hotel but a tough schedule of filming, from nine to five each day, during which time I was shown four potential rental properties but none was dog friendly.' Greer said: 'The biggest problem for us would be getting our dogs there as they would need pet passports costing £200.

'Practically, we would need to drive and that would take a week, including ferries, so it would not be worthwhile.

Keith added: 'It was a great trip, experience and a laugh.'

Pay for roads with council reserves

Sir. I have been pressing Transport Scotland and BEAR since the New Year to take forward a much increased programme of repair on the trunk roads in Argyll and Bute.

Work has started on the A83, the A82 and the A85. Transport Scotland did another inspection last week on the A83 and are insisting that BEAR accelerates its work and devotes more resources.

I will continue to monitor that situation but I hope that the worst of the problems will be sorted within a few weeks.

The bulk of the local roads are Argyll and Bute Council's responsibility and I have received many complaints about those roads.

Some, like the main – and only - road on Jura are in such a dreadful state that is leading to concerns from hauliers about the safety of using them.

Others – like the A886 and the A8003 which I use on a regular basis - have patches where the surface has broken up and many potholes.

Drivers avoiding these can cause traffic accidents and in addition essential workers, like carers, are having delays and disruptions to the vital work they do because of damage to their vehicles.

Local road users must report these problems, to the council, whenever they experience them because only when a pothole has been reported and not acted on can individuals claim compensation for damage.

It would be better if the council accepted that the current situation constitutes an emergency, due to severe deterioration caused by adverse weather, first of all extreme wet weather in the summer and autumn and next very cold winter conditions

It could meet that emergency by dipping into re-

Down memory lane

Iain McKerral from Meadowburn Place has sent the Courier a photograph belonging to his uncle, Peter (Pat) McMillan, of 70 Smith Drive.

It was taken at a football event held in Campbeltown in July 1947. It was a youth club coaching weekend sponsored by Kemsley Newspapers, of which the Daily Record, Sunday Mail and Glasgow Evening News belonged.

The event was coordinated by retired player Jimmy Smith of Rangers, who is not pictured.

serves and establishing a fund for urgent repairs across the area, starting with the worst affected routes like Jura but covering everywhere during the next few months.

The council cannot simply go on saying that its current budgets are constrained.

It has reserves and the reality is that such reserves are, in part, about putting aside resources for times when special circumstances require special measures.

This is one of those times and I have suggested that the council sets up a new fund, with monies from their reserves, immediately. I will continue to monitor the road situation closely and I would encourage people to report faults and damage quickly until they are fixed.

Community councils are also getting active in the matter and I am sure councillors want to see improvements made without any further delay.

Michael Russell, MSP Argyll and Bute.

Roads spending cut Sir,

More had news has been announced for Scotland's infrastructure as road spending has been cut by 20 per cent in the past seven years.

Cosla's recent local government bench-marking framework report stated that road maintenance funding had decreased from £691 million in 2010/11 to £554 million last year.

This is nothing to do with Westminster, Brexit or anything else the SNP likes to point its finger at, the separatists alone have cut > council taxes to the bone. The government needs to explain why it has decided to do this, and why it thinks motorists don't deserve to drive on good quality surfaces.

As I have said so many times before, we in Scotland deserves better than this government.

Alastair Redman. Portnahaven, Islay.

A83 is 'genuinely dangerous' Sir,

I have been driving up and down between Glasgow and Southend on a fairly regular basis for more than 50 years, and, without doubt, I have never seen the A83 in worse condition.

It is in a shocking state some 15 miles short of Inveraray all the way down to Southend. Not only is it shocking, it is genuinely dangerous, with frequent large potholes and many extremely rough patches.

It is difficult enough during the day. At night it is lethal because you cannot properly see those rough patches until you are virtually upon them.

Inevitably, a number of motorists have experienced tyre blow-outs and other damage. I imagine West Coast Motors, which run regular daily services, will be furious.

The major road works, at Strone Point, just short of Inveraray must be costing a fortune, and by the looks of it, could last for years.

Surely the Scottish government would have been better spending its money on proper maintenance on the A83 and not on this maior - but not essential - road works.

When the smoothest stretch of road on the journey is the Moss Road you know the situation is bad, so bad that it is bound to affect much needed tourism.

Jock MacVicar, 11 Melrose Gardens, Glasgow.

Campbeltown minister moves to pastures new

Mark Davey ncourier.co.uk

A CAMPBELTOWN minister with a geography degree will be on the map at Renfrew north parish, on the south side of the Clyde, from early March.

Reverend Philip Wallace has spent 14 years leading the flock at Lorne and Lowland church and prior to accepting the Renfrew north charge preached as sole nominee on January 14.

Rev Wallace said: 'I have enjoyed Campbeltown immensly. It has been a great experience there is such a sense of community working with people here and thoughts for all.

'I have also enjoyed working closely with the other churches in south Kintyre.'

Rev Wallace, who was raised as a Christian in England, spent seven years with Hampshire county council as a trading standards officer before studying for the ministry between 1994 and 1998 at Mansfield college, Oxford.

Rev Wallace spoke about how life in the trading standards department led to a re-evaluation of his life

He said: 'My social conscience was developed by dealing with consumers' problems.

'It made me look at society and the difficulties which people go through. Secondly, I was at church one day half listening to a sermon and thinking of all the things I would try to do if I was a minister.

After qualifying, Rev Wallace was called to the Presbyterian United Reformed Church, in Brighton, where he spent six years before coming to Campbeltown in 2004. As well as his ministry, Rev Wallace has worked with the Kintyre Crime Prevention Panel and the Supporting the Homeless in Kintyre Project. In 2016 he chaired a hustings before the Scottish elections and again last year before the general election.

Rev Wallace said that one of the aspects he has particularly enjoyed has been his involvement with November's Remembrance Sunday services.

He said: 'Remembrance services at both Commonwealth the war graves cemetery and at the cenotaph on the Esplanade help the community to remember its lost ones.

'Part of the ministry is also helping the community to grieve when there are accidents.

'When preaching sermons I like anything about the love of God and God's interaction with people.'

Although a minister's work is 24/7 and may seem very serious Rev Wallace is a bit of a wolf in sheep's clothing - he motors in a three-litre Jaguar XF, which he has driven for seven years. This Sunday Rev Wallace will preach his final sermon at 11 15am

Love is in the air with Spring weddings

What better time for day a dream. love to be in the air than Spring?

It has to be one of the most beautiful and most inspirational times of the year to get married with blossom coming out in bloom and signs of new life starting to show everywhere.

There will be an abundance of beautiful flowers to choose for bouquets and for the lows and greens from the springtime pastel palette make colour co-ordination for the big

Why not think about using Spring as the theme for your decorative focal points for the ceremony and the celebration afterwards. Be fantastically floral with your invites and may be even your wedding dress and there is no stopping there - don't forget the cake.

Wedding cakes have moved on from three white tiers, dare to be different. Delightful berries, edible foilage, birds and even woodland creatures in fondant shapes perched on top would make a show-stopping centre piece.

As we wave goodbye to winter, a hint of better weather breezes and longer days our way opening up possibilities of al-fresco weddings. The chance to party in a marquee or enjoy a beautiful garden or stunning grounds and venues across Argyll.

Anyone planning a wedding in this region is spoilt for choice when it comes to choosing hotels to bring together the special people in their lives for an unforgettable experience. Oban's register office is also a popular choice for couples.

Gorgeous backdrops are essential for photographs that will grace the pages of the wedding albums or Facebook going global. Vintage and chintz is still a firm favourite with Spring brides wanting to create a breath-taking wedding.

Regardless of season there is always so much planning to do and with so much to do, making an essential list should be one of a couple's first priorities - after naming the date and sending out save the date cards. Top of that all-important list should be budget. Work out the limit, go from there and try to stick to it.

Starting a wedding folder or binder with ideas is a great way to begin. Cut out pictures from magazines, look for colours, snatch ideas from anywhere you can and pop them in your collection to make it unique to you.

Talk to friends and family, search about for venues and make a visit so you are sure of finding the perfect place. The guest list is often about compromising so no one is left out but remember it is your wedding day so you should have a say on who you want to share it with you. Research photographers, bands, florists, and caterers - putting in the hard work now will be well worth the effort and peace of mind later. Argyll and Bute – civil ceremonies 'It is your day so we do it your way'

That is the motto here to help couples of Argyll and Bute make their special day registrars who are the unique, magical experience they want. There is a lot more choice and freedom now for couples getting married. Changes in legislation mean they are no longer limited to traditional venues such as registration offices or churches. In the past year, for example, couples have held civil ceremonies held in castles, gardens, vachts, beaches and their own homes. Our registrars focus is on making it possible for couples to have the day they are dreaming of. Getting in touch as early as possible helps to achieve this.

We encourage the inclusion of music and poetry in our ceremonies – which is not to say couples must have this – but we give couples as much choice as possible so their day is perfect from start to finish. In addition, we can offer religious content and alternative ceremonies such as handfasting and candle ceremonies which are becoming really popular.

Having the ceremony where the reception is held, such as a hotel, castle or gathering hall, has become a popular trend, but there are several stunning council marriage rooms available throughout Argyll and Bute. These include a new facility Helensburgh, in Castle House in Dunoon, the Linda McCartney Garden in Campbeltown, Mount Pleasant House on the Isle of Bute and a room overlooking picturesque Tobermory Bay on Mull.

Increasingly, couples are going to the registrar for ceremonies to renew their wedding vows, or a baby naming ceremony. These can even be combined for a special family day. Depending on the venue, council marriage rooms can seat from two to 80 guests. If, however, couples would prefer an intimate ceremony just for themselves, then we can also arrange witnesses for them. There is no residency requirement to get married in Scotland. but every couple is required to give the registrar in the district they wish to be married at least 28 days' notice. We encourage couples to make contact with the registrar early, as different couples will have different requirements. For example, if you are divorced or a surviving partner, you will need specific documents and there are different rules that apply for couples who are coming from outwith the EU. We take great care to assist couples and make sure that everything is in order and stress-free. Forms are valid for three months, but you can book ceremonies a year or more in advance.

The letters of thanks, emails and wonderful feedback we receive from couples is tremendous and greatly appreciated by registration staff – it is great to hear 'You gave us the day we always wanted.'

WILLIAM DUNCAN & CO

"What do you mean my pension is taxable.....!??"

This is the sort of "pubtalk financial advice" we sometimes have to respond to from people who believe that when they reach the blissful horizon of retirement they can draw down their state pension and any personal pensions and not worry about paying tax. Disabusing them of this notion sometimes requires the patience of Solomon and the diplomatic skills of Donald Trump who would simply tweet -"Pensions are taxable - end of"

My equally brief reply tweet would be "Not so!" There are several ways in which you can mitigate this position if you plan well in advance. For example income and capital gains from ISA's are not taxable and there are additional tax allowances available on dividend income and on savings income. If you have investments and ally spend in later life can lock in some capital gains each year then there is additional tax relief available. Income tax generally kicks in above the level of the personal allowance (£11,850 from 6 April 2018) but with careful structuring it is theoretically possible through a mixture of pension income, savings income, dividends and capital gains to earn just over £30,000 of taxable income in 2018/19 without incurring any tax - and that is excluding the ability to earn income and realise capital gains tax free through holding ISA's. However, to work towards this will require some very careful planning over a number of years working with both your IFA and your accountant. It goes without saying that it is rarely too early to start on that planning route.

Financial planners, Tilney, produced a report in 2017, "The cost of tomorrow", in which they calculated that people yet to retire underestimated the amount they will actuby almost £100,000. People in later life like to spend more on holidays with multiple trips abroad as their aspiration. Noone has any desire to cut back on their lifestyle choices in retirement so to help meet the shortfall in their aspirations they will need to increase their after-tax income. The difference in tax payable between £30,000 earned all as pensionincome and £30,000structured optimally as noted above could be as much as an eye-watering £3,630 per annum (possibly a little bit less if you live in Scotland). For a retired couple (who could each achieve that saving), that's a very decent overseas holiday and several long weekend European city-breaks each year(with a few cocktails thrown in) - all care of HM Treasury. And just think how refreshing that Pina Colada would taste knowing thatMessrs Hammond and MacKay were paying for it!

Iain Webster - Director. William Duncan & Co

If you enjoy working and are good at what you do, then don't stop until you want to. But, after working to build a career, pay the bills, raise a family and shoulder responsibility suddenly you can take delight in being, well a bit selfish, but not in a bad way!

But whatever you decide there is one very important factor: money. It is never too early – or in some cases, too late - to get in touch with a financial advisor.

It might be you want to downsize, move closer to family or have them move to live near you. Or you just might want to spend more time living in, and enjoying, the home you have worked all your life to pay for and now plan some major refurbishments.

Keeping body and mind healthy and active are keys to happiness in retirement and there is a wealth of clubs and courses available across Argyll and Bute you will be spoilt for you will be spoint for choice. If, in the unlikely chance you cannot find what you are looking for, then find some like-minded folk and start your own! Some people retire and start working to help their families, be they decorating and repairing a younger family member's home or looking after grandchildren. Some grandparents, on the other hand, say 'Not likely' and reach for the cruise brochures.

Suddenly travel is no longer dictated by your leave entitlement. We live in one of the most beautiful places on earth, where people save all year and come and spend their holidays! So when was the last time you packed a wee bag and hopped on a CaMac ferry to go visit an island? And if you live on an island when did you last pack your bag and book into a hotel on the mainland, visit old friends and go to the cinema? Or visit one of our historic landmarks. beauty spots muse-

Do not forget all the old clichés about retiring and swapping the office for the golf course or fishing. Haven't we got some of the best golf courses and sea, river and loch fishing in the UK on our doorsteps? And if you have never done these things, then there are plenty of clubs and organisations where you can learn.

When you retire you become a valuable community asset, namely a volunteer with time, work and life experience plus the patience and sense of humour only age can bring. There are so many roles where you can make a difference, get out there!

And always remember the words of American writer Mark Twain: 'Age is an issue of mind over matter. If you don't mind, it doesn't matter.'

Our volunteers assist Kintyre's older people (over 60's) to remain independent in their own homes and feel more connected within the local community. All our volunteers are registered with PVG. So what do I need to do to volunteer? All you need to do is to call us here at Shopper Aide for a chat and we will do the rest. Giving somebody who lives alone an hour of your time is making our community a better place and helping to improve the lives of others.

A G BARR OPTOMETRISTS

Just as our physical strength decreases with age, our eyes also exhibit an age-related decline in performance particularly as we reach our 60s and beyond.

Some age-related eye changes, such as presbyopia are perfectly normal and don't signify any sort of disease process. While cataracts can be considered an age-related disease, they are extremely common among seniors and can be readily corrected with cataract surgery.

Some of us, however, will experience more serious age-related eye diseases that have greater potential for affecting our quality of life as we grow older. These conditions include glaucoma, malacular degeneration and diabetic retinopathy.. It is important to have routine eye exams and explore vision correction options.

Multiple eyewear solutions might be needed for presbyopia at this age.

Tell your eye doctor about medications (some can cause visual side effects, including dry eye).

Besides regular eye exams, have annual physicals to identify underlying conditions such as diabetes that might cause eye problems.

Use brighter lights for reading. Allow more time to adjust to changing light conditions.

Looking after your eyes really will enable you to live your life to the full in retirement.

All eye tests in Scotland are free and in our practice we have all the specialised equipment required to examine your eyes thoroughly.

Pop in or call for a warm professional and friendly chat about your eye sight and how we can help.

FROM OUR FILES

TEN YEARS AGO Friday February 22, 2008 Sergeant says farewell

AFTER 11 years of being involved in the Kintyre Crime Prevention Panel (KCPP), Sergeant William Brian has decided to leave Kintyre.

William came to Campbeltown in 1995 and a year later joined the panel but, owing to work commitments, he will be relocating to East Kilbride with his family.

In Jackton, he will be working as a full-time member of staff at the Strathclyde Police Force training centre.

He became secretary of the KCPP in 1996, and then became heavily involved in working with the new CCTV project, arranging, planning and funding applications when he completed near to 400 forms with Eva MacDonald MBE.

In 2003, Willie stood down as secretary, but remained an active member in the role of CCTV manager.

Bomb experts called in beach drama

MACHRIHANISH was the focus of a major safety operation on Monday, after 40 Second World War phosphorus flares were washed up on the shoreline.

A Royal Navy diving team from Faslane travelled to Machrihanish and rendered several canisters safe by setting fire to them.

The Royal Navy could not confirm whether or not the devices, which were old and in poor condition, were of military origin.

Sergeant William Brian was presented with a token of gratitude from the Kintyre Crime Prevention Panel for all his hard work.

The bomb disposal team had been called in by the Coastguard.

Members of the public have been warmed not to handle such flares, which could cause serious injury. They are around 12 inches long, cylindrical, grey and yellow in colour, and are packed in a foam compound.

Investigators believe they may be coming from barges which were sunk off the coast near Campbeltown during the Second World War

Peninver – by half a point

PENINVER Players have won their way through to the divisional finals of the Scottish Community Drama Association's 1968 festival.

They beat Campbeltown Youth Club in last week's local round by just half a point.

Nine teams competed in three nights of acting at Campbeltown's Victoria Hall

At the conclusion of the third night, Mr Archibald Keith, chairman of Kintyre District Drama Association, introduced Mr James Crampsey, the adjudicator.

Summing up the first night's performances, Mr Crampsey said that the favourites, Dunaverty Players, were a sad reflection on their last year's winning performance.

The play they chose this year, Profile, a drama by T C Thomas, had a beautifully smooth opening with good props and superb lighting. However, the Detective Inspector (John Barbour) should have had a hat on to let the audience know he was in someone else's house and not his own.

ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO Saturday February 23, 1918 Grammar School Cadet Corps

A PRELIMINARY inspection of this corps was made on Wednesday of last week by the Marquis of Breadalbane, Lord Lieutenant of the County, who was accompanied by His Grace the Duke of Argyll, Major Maclachlan, Commandant of the Argyllshire Volunteer Regiment, Colonel Burnley-Campbell of Ormidale, Major A J M Bennett, Dunoon, secretary of the Argyllshire Territorial Force Association, and captain and adjutant T C Scott; among others present being Lieut-Colonel J N Mactaggart, Sheriff Macmaster Campbell, members of school board etc.

The corps was under the command of Captain R Y Cunningham, rector of the school, who is their trainer, and performed a series of exercises under Captain Scott

There were 95 lads on parade and they went through the various evolutions smartly and with every credit to themselves and their instructor.

Thought for the Week with Marilyn Shedden

HOW often we hear things like, 'It will be a seven-day wonder', or 'Today's news is tomorrow's fish and chip paper'? Sensational items of news soon lose their appeal as something new hits the headlines.

This is not the case with Jesus of Nazareth, and is one of the things that amazes me about his story.

Here was a man who lived more than 2,000 years ago, only ministered for three years, probably didn't travel more than 30 miles from his home - and yet we are still talking about him.

There are probably more books written about Jesus than any other living person in history

He lived in an age when there was no media communication, no internet, no emails, tweeting or texts.

He didn't write down anything – unless you count his comments written in sand about not accusing people of wrongdoing unless you are flawless yourself.

He didn't have influence in the politics of the time, but he surely was a thorn in the flesh of corrupt leaders and the smugly satisfied religious elite of his day.

He was a man of the people and he made his mark on everyone he met, and still does today

At this time of Lent, those of us who are drawn to the Christian faith reflect on the last weeks of Jesus's earthly life.

We walk alongside him and listen again to his teachings through the writings of his earthly companions.

His words, however, reach out to people of all faiths and none, because his teaching is simple and he gave one command only. To love one another.

Easy? Absolutely not, but how else will our hurting, troubled, warring, aching world survive?

The away side were struggling to get a foothold and Tarbert were eager in the challenges. With only 15 minutes on the clock. Iain MacKinnon burst clear

The game changed in the next 20 minutes as Duncanrig pressed to get back into the

A good chance came and went when their striker somehow missed the target from only three yards. Chris Selfridge saved well from a 25-yard effort but on the half-hour the away side gained their reward.

Good play down the left allowed a cross shot to fizz across the Tarbert goal, the ball rebounded off the far post and straight into the path of the striker for a tap-in finish.

In the last five minutes of the first half, Tarbert had two chances – the first, another fine cross from Andy Guy into the box, Mac-Dougall headed just over the crossbar but the second was converted.

More good play set MacKinnon away and his unselfish square pass set up MacDougall for his hat-trick and a half-time of 3-1.

The second half was a feisty affair but Tarbert restricted Duncanrig to very few chances from close range although they did have a couple of long-range efforts that were well saved by keeper Selfridge.

Tarbert looked dangerous on the counter-attack every time they broke forward and won a series of corners around the hour mark.

From one of the corners, the ball broke on the right side of the box and an uncertain touch from the defender allowed Blair to nip the ball away and be crudely fouled.

The referee played a good advantage though as the ball flew across goalmouth and the there was the ever present MacDougall to notch his and Tarbert's fourth goal.

Very few chances were allowed to the away side but they did pull one back late on as a lucky ricochet fell to their striker to tap in at the back post.

This proved no more than a consolation though as Tarbert saw the game out to win 4-2 and climb two places in the league table.

Tarbert Tomorrow play Paisley, who sit above them in the table and have only lost three times this season. A tough match awaits but Tarbert will be looking to continue to build the momentum gained in the past few weeks.

Pupils goalie scores: attack came too late

DFDL Under 16 League Campbeltown Pupils 2 Oban Saints 3

THE PUPILS U16s played a close Argyll derby on the allweather pitch against Argyllshire rivals Oban Saints.

The Campbeltown side hoped to give a better display than the previous meeting in Oban when the Saints were comfortable winners.

The Pupils had a couple of regular players missing but things were balanced a bit when Oban started with 10 men as they were unable to get a full squad together for the game.

The first half saw Oban take the game to the Pupils as they got some good passing together. Although the Pupils were up against it for spells in the game they were defending pretty well and were mostly able to keep the Oban attack at bay.

The home side had a couple of very good chances to get onto the scoreboard in the first half.

A hotly disputed penalty claim was turned down. An Oban defender put both hand in front of his body and handled the ball.

Referee Neil John MacPhail's view must have been blocked as he waved play on leaving the home side and supporters furious.

The second half saw the Pupils' play improve and and they made better passes although not as well as their usual standard.

With the game at 2-0 the Pupils' coaches replaced Archie McKellar in goal and moved him up front to try and get something from the game.

It paid off and, shortly after the change, McKellar found himself through on goal and slotted the ball home nicely to bring the Pupils back into the game. The goal gave the team a bit of a lift and there seemed to be more confidence in their play but they received a sucker punch as Oban got on the attack.

Striker, Jordan Norman, hit a lovely shot to the keeper's right and Saints regained their two goal cushion. The Pupils had certainly improved and saw a bit of luck come their way.

campbeltowncour / campbeltowncourier

www.campbeltowncourier.co.uk

Matthew Lang hit a left foot shot, although it was straight at the keeper, the ball found its way into the goal as the keeper's view must have been blocked and he mistimed the ball to see it roll in.

The goal reinvigorated the Pupils' attack as it seemed they could get something from the game. It was not to be as they ran out of time and the referee blew for full time.

INSIDE THIS WEEK: Pupils goalie scores: attack came too late

Late agony spoils a prime Pupils' away performance

SAFL Premier One Rossvale Campbeltown Pupils

HOW the visitors failed to take something from this game remains a mystery.

There's little to choose between most of the sides in Premier Division One, but the McFadyens'-sponsored Campbeltown Pupils will be happy to see the back of a team they have outplayed on two occasions this season, only to finish both encounters with absolutely nothing.

Sary Rahma in action for Campbeltown three weeks ago. 50_c06pupils04

The Pupils were all over the home side for long periods in both halves, only to concede a late goal and the points at the crucial eleventh hour.

The Campbeltown Courier

SPORT

The home side's tactics were pretty basic, feeding long balls to two willing runners in hope of a breakthrough. However, they found the Pupils' back four in outstanding form.

Mark Barrett and Keith Mitchell remained unmoved at the heart of defence and fullbacks Allan and Wylie almost impossible to turn in the wide defensive positions.

The Pupils once more operated a 4-2-3-1 system, tactics that with every game seem to suit the overall makeup of the squad. Liam Renton and Ryan Deans played as cover in front of the back four. It not only adds defensive quality, but also allows other players the springboard to attack. Ryan Deans had the first real opportunity of the match, cutting in from the left to see his parting shot cannon off the goalkeeper's legs and run to safety. Donald McCallum proved the visitors' most creative player, reaching to the deadball line on a number of occasions before sending the ball invitingly across goal - but unfortunately, there were no takers for the simple tap-in.

Typically dogged in defence, Rossvale suddenly broke upfield and were rewarded for their adventure with a goal against the run of play.

Once more it was a nothing ball over the top, but Keith Mitchell was adjudged to have made contact with the forward and the resultant penalty kick was duly dispatched without hesitation.

The home side nearly doubled their lead on the stroke of half-time, a corner kick to the back post being sweetly struck goalwards only to whistle wide of the junction between post and bar.

All to play for in the second half of a closely fought match, the Pupils found early success with Gary Grumoli and Fraser Wylie combing well on the attacking left, but surprisingly the home side seemed entirely happy to defend in dogged fashion and pick up the scraps on the counter-attack.

At last, the breakthrough arrived for the visitors and the architect once more would skills from McCallum released Gary Grumoli in on goal, his parting shot deflecting off a defender into the path of Sary Rahma.
